FIREMEN KILLED IN FALL OF BUILDING

Montreal Has Worst Fire Since Conflagration Thirteen Years Ago

THREE MEMBERS OF BRIGADE ARE HURT

Sash and Blind Factory, Ice Warehouse and Flats More or Less Burned

DAMAGE ESTIMATE IS QUARTER OF MILLION

Montreal, June 23.—Four Montreal firemen lie dead at the morgue, three are injured, one seriously; the large three-story sash and blind factory of Itzweire & Sarrazin, facing on Duvernay and Levis streets and Fabian avenue, St. Gunegonde, is demolished; the large ice warehouse of the City Ice Company in Fabian avenue, in the rear of the burned factory, has caved in and is still burning in the interior; the front walls of a row of flats from 195 to 223 Duvernay street, opposite the sash and blind factory, are scarred and blackened from the fire and smoke, windows and doors being destroyed and in many cases front rooms gutted, as the result of a big conflagration last night. This is the result of the most disastrous fire that has visited this city since the burning of the Board of Trade building thirteen years ago.

The dead are: John C. Forsythe, aged 28 years; Patrick Hamill, aged 34 years; John McDermott, 22 years, and Webster Moleson, 25 years.

Starting presumably from a burning match or a lighted cigarette, thrown carelessly by a passerby into some shavings lying in the Fabian avenue doorway, is thought to have been the cause of the blaze. The ignited shavings in the open doorway were quickly drawn to a bin in the centre of the building which was packed with excelsior and other flimsy material. This box of refuse served as tinder for the creeping flames.

From the refuse box to the dry kiln on the floor above in the east wing of the building, a room filled with closely-piled lumber was in the path of the flames. The intense heat from the burning refuse bin destroyed the floor from under the dry kiln, participating tons of the partly-dried lumber into the burning furnace beneath, which loosened the piles sufficiently to cause a draft. All this happened before the firemen arrived on the scene.

Captain Enlowe, with five men, fought the blaze with two streams at the place of its origin in Fabian lane, directing their efforts against the dry kiln. Suddenly a dense volume of smoke rushed out through the windows, and without warning a section of the south wall collapsed, engulfing the men in its debris. Captain Enlowe and Fireman Cox escaped the full force of the falling wall and were taken out alive by the rescuing party, but were badly burned and bruised. Fireman Desjardines was also severely injured. His condition is regarded as serious. The injured men were immediately taken to hospitals.

Owing to the intense heat and great volumes of smoke that poured from the smouldering debris, the work of rescue was slow and difficult. Finally, however, the burned and charred remains of the four firemen were taken out by their comrades and removed to the morgue.

A general alarm called the fire apparatus from every station in the city and the ambulances from every hospital.

The property loss will reach $225,000 and is fairly well covered by insurance.

Floral tributes of all kinds are pouring into the homes of the bereaved families and at the various fire stations throughout the city. They come from all classes of the community, and many have been sent from points outside Montreal.

There will be a civic funeral of the four victims, the Roman Catholic and the Protestant processions moving through the streets side by side. The remains will be carried on an open fire truck.

The mayor and aldermen, the entire fire brigade, representatives from the insurance societies, friendly societies and other organizations throughout the city, police, militia forces and others will follow the remains to the churches, where memorial services will be held simultaneously, and thence to the cemeteries.

It is feared that the wife of Fireman Patrick Hammil, who was among the dead, will not survive the shock. She was young and was preparing to celebrate the sixth anniversary of the marriage yesterday when the news of her husband's death came.

SPEAKER CLARK WOULD PREVENT FARMERS SETTLING IN CANADA

CHAMP CLARK

United States Speaker, who sees danger in influx of American farmers into Canada.

Emigration Costing United States Millions of Dollars Annually in Money

GIVES ATTENTION TO KEEPING BEST PEOPLE

Recently 1,845 Farmers Worth $533,500 Crossed to Buy Canadian Lands

DOMINION IS TAKING $123,000,000 ANNUALLY

Washington, D. C., June 23.—While committees of both Houses of congress are preparing to impress immigration reforms at the next session, Speaker Clark is giving attention to the other side of the question. Emigration, the speaker said in a statement last night, is costing the United States millions of dollars a year in actual money, aside from the loss involved in giving up citizens to be replaced by a foreign immigrant.

"It is high time," said Mr. Clark, "that more attention be paid to the influence of emigration upon our future. These citizens who are leaving us understand our institutions, our ways and our aspirations, while most of the immigrants into this country have to be taught these things.

"In one week not long since, 1,845 United States farmers with $388,500 in cash and $145,000 in personal property, crossed into Western Canada to settle permanently in British North America. That's an average of $288 per capita, and that week was below the weekly average into that region alone. How many go to other countries I do not know.

"These emigrants are among our best citizens. I am personally acquainted with 200 or 300 of them. There is not a bad or shiftless man in the lot. They are seeking to better their conditions. They almost invariably take their families with them. The principal reason they expatriate themselves is the lure of cheaper lands and less stringent land laws as to homesteading, etc.

"Congress should make our homestead conditions as easy as possible, compatible with safety, and should increase the area for home building by judicious encouragement of both irrigation and drainage.

"A statistician has argued that the average adult citizen is of the money value of $1,000, considering solely as an asset to the country. If that is true, the 1,845 United States farmers who crossed the Canadian border depleted the assets of the republic that week by $2,378,500, which multiplied by 52 makes the grand annual total of loss to the republic $123,682,000 gone to Canada alone."

LETTERS DISCLOSE HIGHBINDER PLOTS

Many Crimes Revealed by Arrest of Head of Chinese Tong Yesterday

San Francisco, June 22.—Blackmail, murder, opium smuggling and smuggling coolies across the border were revealed in letters and documents taken yesterday upon the arrest of Wong Do King, head of the Bing Kung tong, according to information given out last night by federal immigration officials. Death, say the immigration men, was the penalty paid by all who opposed or attempted to betray the schemes of the highbinder organization. The deportation of Wong will be sought at once, and other Chinese, powerful in many American cities, will speedily be prosecuted. Wong, for twenty years has been head of the Bing Kungs, the most warlike and powerful of the Chinese secret societies.

Widespread levying of blackmail, said to be the principal activity of the Bing Kungs, was made effective by a score of gunmen on regular salaries, with bonuses for killing big men. The gunmen also protected gambling dens and owners of Chinese and American slave girls.

Many letters bear upon the recent tong war, which extended the length of the Pacific coast, some of them giving specific instructions for the killing of various men. A great number reveal methods of smuggling. One of the documents found was a catechism for smuggled Chinese, preparing them for questions by immigration inspectors if apprehended.

TRANSCONTINENTAL TO AID IN MOVING GRAIN

Last Gap of Fifty-Three Miles in Rails Will Be Covered in Fall.

Ottawa, Ont., June 23.—Canada's new transcontinental railway promises to be a potent factor in solving this year's transportation problem as regards handling the grain crop. The line is now in good operating shape from Winnipeg right through to Cochrane, having running rights over the T. & N. O. Trains will be operated direct from Winnipeg to North Bay, and thence to the terminals at point of water shipment. Arrangements are now being made that the line may be fully utilized, and that it may aid in averting a grain blockade. Mr. McPherson, assistant commissioner, who has just returned from an inspection trip, states that the only remaining gap where rails are not laid is one of 53 miles, between Cochrane and Harvey Junction. The track in this section will be down this fall.

BEATTY SUCCEEDS CREELMAN.

Montreal, June 23.—A. R. Creelman, K. C., general counsel of the C. P. R., has resigned. Mr. Creelman continues his connection with the company as a member of the board of directors, and on occasion as special counsel.

Edward W. Beatty has been appointed general counsel to succeed Mr. Creelman.

WILSON STANDS FOR REFORM IN BANKING

Urges Congress to Sacrifice Personal Affairs for Good of Nation

PEOPLE WAIT IN RAIN IN HOPE OF ENTERING

Calls for Immediate Action and Policy on Currency Responsive to Credit

BANKS THE INSTRUMENTS NOT BUSINESS MASTERS

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Long before the Capitol doors were opened to-day, hundreds of persons lined up in a steady rain in the hope of hearing President Wilson deliver his address to congress on currency reform. Although the attendance had been rigidly limited to one card of admission for each member of either House and provision for the president's family, and the cabinet circle, hundreds clamored for admission.

Railings were erected near the entrance doors, guards were placed in charge of the entrances, and a "ticket chopper's" box installed.

The House and senate had agreed by a resolution adopted last week to take a recess just before 1 o'clock, and to assemble in joint session in the House chamber promptly at 1 o'clock, the senate proceeding in a body to the House chamber led by Vice-President Marshall and Secretary Baker.

The president's address to-day was an appeal to every member of the House and senate to lay aside personal considerations and sacrifice comfort and even health, if necessary, to secure at once a revision and reform of the nation's banking system. Only in that way, he declared, could the country secure the benefits of the tariff revision soon to be completed.

"It is absolutely imperative," he said, "that we should give the businessmen of this country a banking and currency system by means of which they can make use of the freedom of enterprise and of individual initiative which we are about to bestow upon them."

"It is perfectly clear that it is our duty to supply the new banking and currency system the country needs, and that it will immediately need it more than ever.

"The only question is, when shall we supply it? Now or later, after the demands shall have become reproaches that we were so dull and slow? Shall we hasten to change the tariff laws, and then be laggards about making it possible and easy for the country to take advantage of the change? There can be only one answer to that question. We must act now, at whatever sacrifice to ourselves. It is a duty which the circumstances forbid us to postpone. I should be recreant to my deepest convictions of public obligation did I not press it upon you with solemn and urgent insistence."

"The principles upon which we should act are also clear. The country has sought and seen its path in this matter within the last few years—sees it more clearly now than it ever saw it before—much more clearly than the last legislative proposals on the subject were made. We must have a currency, not rigid as now, but readily, elastically responsive to sound credit, the expanding and contracting credits of everyday transactions, the normal ebb and flow of personal and corporate dealings.

Our banking laws must mobilize reserves, must not permit the concentration anywhere in a few hands of the monetary resources of the country or their use for speculative purposes in such volume as to hinder or impair or stand in the way of other more legitimate or more fruitful uses. And the control of the system of banking, and of issue which our new laws are to set up must be public, not private; must be vested in the government itself, so that the banks may be the instruments, not the masters of business, and of individual enterprise and initiative.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM BULLET IN C. P. R. TRAIN

Furrow Across Head of W. T. Nicol and Broken Window Are Only Evidence.

Vancouver, June 23.—A rifle or revolver bullet fired by some unknown miscreant with murderous intent, crashed through the windows of a crowded observation car of the C. P. R. westbound express Saturday night, ploughing a furrow across the top of the head of W. T. Nicol, of Vancouver, a passenger seated on the rear platform of the car. Flying fragments of glass struck Mrs. Mann, wife of A. R. Mann, president of the Northern Construction Company, cutting her cheek and causing it to bleed copiously. The escape of Mrs. Mann as well as Mr. Nicol was little short of a miraculous.

The bullet in its oblique course fired from a point on an embankment on the south side of the track, perforated Mr. Nicol's hat and swept it off the train. Half a dozen C. P. R. detectives have been detailed to investigate the affair. Several of them are inclined to the belief that the deed was committed with a rock instead of with a rifle or revolver.

The sensational incident occurred about 10 o'clock at night about one mile east of Mission Junction.

CAPTURE YOUNG MAN ON HOLD-UP CHARGE

Winnipeg, June 22.—Officer Wm. Eddy, of the police department, tonight captured the man who is believed to be guilty of a number of recent hold-ups in the fashionable resident district of Fort Rouge. He is Herbert Bray, aged 19, and was formerly a printer on the Colonist newspaper, Victoria, and at one time office boy in Henry Birks jewellery store, Ottawa.

Eddy noticed him acting suspiciously in the bush of Fort Rouge. When arrested he had a loaded revolver, a mask and some jewelry taken from victims of recent hold-ups. He has only been in the city two weeks.

POPE WOULD PURCHASE PINE WOOD OF PRINCE

Rome, June 23.—Owing to the precarious health of the Pontiff after his recent illness, it is understood negotiations are now going on between the Holy See and Prince Tortonia for the purchase of a pine woods owned by the prince which lies close to the Vatican gardens.

This wood can be reached either by means of an underground passage or an archway, and would enable the Pope to enjoy a very much larger area for his walks.

TO REPRESENT DOVER.

London, June 23. — Viscount Vere Brabazon Ponsonby Duncannon was to-day returned to parliament unopposed for Dover, succeeding the late Rt. Hon. George Wyndham, Unionist. He is 32 years of age.

PRESIDENT RAYMOND POINCARE TO BE GUEST OF KING GEORGE

French Premier Will Arrive at Spithead on Dreadnought To-morrow

WILL BE WELCOMED BY THE PRINCE OF WALES

Visits London Until Friday Accompanied by M. Stephen Pichon

ATTEND ROYAL DINNER AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE

London, June 23.—The president of France, M. Raymond Poincare, has chosen this country for his official visit after his election and will arrive at Spithead to-morrow on the Dreadnought Jean Bart, to remain the guest of King George and the British nation until June 27. He will be accompanied by M. Stephen Pichon, French minister for foreign affairs, and a number of high officials.

Great preparations have been made to pay the president the highest honors by the court, the government and the municipalities. The visit has created the liveliest interest throughout the country, not only for the position that the distinguished visitor holds, but because of his own personality.

At Spithead the president will be received by a fleet composed of warships. The president will proceed to Portsmouth dockyard, where the Prince of Wales and the Duke of Connaught, representing the King, will offer him a formal welcome.

King George will be at Victoria Station, London, to receive his guest and escort him to York House, which has been placed at his disposal during his stay.

That evening the King will give a dinner at Buckingham Palace, which gathering will include members of the royal family, distinguished statesmen, diplomats and officials.

Paris, June 23.—President Raymond Poincare left to-day to pay his first official visit since election. He is to pass four days in London.

Premier Louis Barthou and nearly all the cabinet were at the station to bid the president farewell.

H. R. H. PRINCE OF WALES

Will welcome President of France to-morrow at Portsmouth in company with the Duke of Connaught.

HUNGER STRIKERS ARE RELEASED FROM PRISON

Four Officials of Women's Social and Political Union at Large on License.

London, June 23.—Ill-health brought about by "hunger striking" opened the prison doors yesterday for four officials of the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant suffragettes' organization, who were sentenced on Tuesday last to varying terms of imprisonment for conspiracy to commit malicious damage to property.

The women who were released on license were Miss Annie Kenney, who superintended the organization of the Women's Social and Political Union; Miss Rachael Barrett, assistant editor of the Suffragette; Miss Agnes S. Lake, business manager of the militants' organ, and Miss Geraldine Lennox, sub-editor.

Miss Kenney was serving a term of eighteen months' imprisonment; Miss Barrett nine months and Miss Lake and Miss Lennox six months each, all at hard labor.

The prisoners declared when sentence was pronounced that they would refuse to eat and would compel the prison authorities to release them.

What is alleged to have been a militant suffragette attempt to wreck an express train from London to Plymouth in a tunnel near Devonport on Saturday was reported to-day:

A motor belonging to the London & Southwestern railway while proceeding through the tunnel along the rails came in contact with a heavy obstacle. The motorman made a search and discovered two heavy wooden wedges between the rails over which the express train was due to pass.

CHURCH NOT TOO LATE IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

London, June 23.—The Bishop of London, speaking at the Mansion House to-day, said he believed that the Anglican church may have started too late in the Canadian Northwest, but he believed they are not too late in British Columbia. Canada was the garden of the world, he said, and was absolutely a god-given cure for our over-crowded population, but not for wastrals.

During the next fifty years, he added, if it did its duty, Canada would become the most God-fearing nation the world has ever known.

BISHOP OF LONDON PUBLICLY PROTESTS

Monster Church Demonstration in Hyde Park Against Disestablishment

London, June 23.—Under the leadership of the Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington Ingraham, Bishop of London, a monster Church of England demonstration, attended by delegates from all parts of the country, was held in Hyde Park last night to protest against the Welsh Disestablishment Bill, which passed its second reading in the House of Commons on June 17.

Following the intercession services held in nearly all of the London churches, sixteen processions, headed by brass bands and accompanied by church dignitaries, marched from different parts of the metropolis to the park, where twelve platforms, around which it was estimated more than 100,000 persons gathered, and speakers denounced the bill.

Resolutions declaring "we will not have our church dismembered and four of our dioceses disestablished and disendowed," were put simultaneously from all the platforms and carried with enthusiasm.

PRETTY GIRLS WELCOME CRUISER WITH KISSES

Prince George of Battenberg and Commander Halsey Prove True Sailors Under Fire.

Auckland, N. Z., June 23.—The welcome of the battleship New Zealand in Auckland was conducted in a right proper manner yesterday. The enthusiasm ran very high and a bevy of pretty girls kissed Prince George of Battenberg, and patted him on the back. They then turned their attention to Commander Halsey, and before that astute officer could escape, kissed him too.

To the commander's credit be it said that his resistance was not strenuous.

As the big ocean greyhound slipped into the picturesque harbor, the immense crowd assembled along the waterfront sent up cheer after cheer. Among the spectators was a number of Maoris in their full regalia, and the natives appeared to be just as enthusiastic as their white skinned brothers.

The city was en fete and entertainment of all kinds was provided for the officers and crew. The vessel leaves shortly for Canada.

HARRY LAUDER PREACHES SERMON ON SOCIABILITY

Bristol, Eng., June 23.—Harry Lauder appeared in the pulpit of the Castle Green Congregational church yesterday and preached to an audience of 1,200 on the "Power of Sociability."

The little comedian meant to be serious, but could not prevent his Scotch humor peeping out, and when he told a funny story even the clergyman squirmed. Mr. Lauder drew a picture of a boy who goes about losing work and money in drinking and landing in jail. He exhorted all parents to send their children to Sunday school.

"I began there," he added impressively.

BOYS SHAKE HANDS IN FACE OF DEATH

When Rope Holding Boat Breaks Two Are Carried Into Niagara Rapids

DISTINCTIVE BRAVERY AT GREAT WHIRLPOOL

Hundreds Helpless on River Banks Gaze at Tragedy in Giant Waters

MEN HYSTERICAL AND WOMEN WEEP AND PRAY

Niagara Falls, N. Y., June 23.—Donald Roscoe, 10 years old, and Hubert Moore, 9 years old, both of Buffalo, went to their death in a small boat late yesterday afternoon in the whirlpool rapids while hundreds of men watched helplessly from the shore. The boys were playing in a flat-bottomed scow half a mile above the rapids, when the rope holding the boat broke and they were carried out into the stream and went down the river.

Up to the time the boat reached midstream it made little progress. After it passed the bridge the current carried it rapidly toward the rapids. The bridgemen did not see the boat until it was close at hand. Then they called fire headquarters and two companies of firemen were sent to save the lads if possible.

Hundreds swarmed to the river banks in a vain effort to rescue them. The boys, realizing their fate, stood up as the boat neared the edge of the roaring whirlpool and shook hands in farewell. A second later they were engulfed by a great wave in the rapids.

The boat shot out of sight. One of the boys was seen for a moment struggling in the rushing waters and then disappeared. Neither body has been recovered.

Never at any time was there a chance to save the boys. The firemen could do nothing. There were scores of passengers in the cars along the gorge route, and they watched the hopeless struggle of the boys. The hundreds who had gathered at the waters' edge could offer no aid. Men became hysterical in their powerlessness, and women passengers on the cars wept and prayed in distress at the plight of the lads, who were standing up in the boat calling for help.

As the boat neared Swift Drift, the first breaking of the river from the calm upper reaches to the rapids, it began to rock. The boys sat down to keep from tumbling into the stream.

Then, caught in Swift Drift, the boat went racing under the bridge. As they passed under the bridge they ceased their cries for help. The two mites turned toward each other and calmly shook hands, then with the boat in the tumbling waters, threw themselves on the seats of the scow and clung with all their strength.

The craft held to its course until it encountered a huge wave, which crested at a height of 40 feet. It seemed to dive in the middle of the wave, and when it came again to view it was bottom-up. A second or two later a little head was seen on a wave below for a moment, and then it was seen no more.

SMALL GIRL SAVES TRAIN FROM WRECK

Passengers Collect $100 as Reward Which Child Thinks She Ought Not to Take.

Hot Springs, Ark., June 23.—Passengers on an Iron Mountain train, running between Kansas City and Hot Springs, owe their safety to Bertha Kay, 14 years old, who lives with her parents on a farm 12 miles from this place.

Bertha and her little sister were walking on the track yesterday afternoon when they discovered a railroad bridge in flames and rails twisted. Bertha realized that the Kansas City-Hot Springs flyer would arrive in a few minutes. She ran up the track and awaited the train.

In a few minutes the express came around a nearby bend. The child frantically waved her sunbonnet and the engineer applied the brakes and stopped the engine within eight feet of the bridge.

The passengers collected $100 for the little heroine.

"I don't think you should give me this money," the child said, "for what I did. It would have been awful if the engine had gone on the bridge. Any girl would have done the same thing."

MINISTER OF LABOR COMING.

Ottawa, June 23.—Hon. T. W. Crothers, minister of labor, is planning to make a flying trip to the coast, leaving about July 1, to investigate personally the labor troubles in the mines on Vancouver Island. Mr. Crothers will meet the representatives of both employees and employers.

PLUNGES FROM STEAMER INTO VANCOUVER HARBOR

Vancouver, June 23.—Without a cry, and before he could be stopped by other passengers, a well-dressed man plunged from the upper deck of the North Vancouver ferry at 10.10 o'clock on Saturday night, when the boat was half-way across the inlet heading for the north shore. The identity of the suicide is unknown.

As he took the plunge from the forward part of the deck, it is surmised that he was sucked under the keel, and sustained fatal injuries by being struck by the propeller. No trace of the body could be seen.

WAR AEROPLANE DOES DAMAGE TO FEDERALS

Dedier Masson Drops Bombs on Huerta Soldiers, Killing Many

Douglas, Ariz., June 23.—Dedier Masson, in his war aeroplane, late Saturday forced the gunboats Guerrero and Tampico to steam out to sea from Guaymas harbor.

Reports received by the constitutionalist committee here also declared that Gen. Ojeda's federals were being held in by the state troops fighting some miles north of the California gulf port.

The French aviator was accompanied on his flights by Capt. Manuel B. Alcalde, who assisted in dropping the bombs over the town and the two Mexican gunboats lying in the harbor. Just before dusk Masson landed to get ammunition.

An official message received this afternoon from Governor Pesquiera said the battle of Ortiz, begun Thursday, had been resumed and that the rebel war aeroplane, piloted by Dedier Masson, the French aviator, had done much execution among the federals commanded by Ojeda.

Pesquiera also asserted that the Huerta commander was entirely surrounded and could not get away unless he cut through the lines of constitutionalists, who greatly outnumbered his force.

Masson, according to the message, dropped one bomb that killed fifty-two men. These and a hundred other federal dead, together with seventy rebel dead and seventy wounded men, were brought to Hermosillo on a military train.

SCENTS MYSTERY IN DEATH OF FLAGLER

Cousin of Millionaire Tells of His Visit to Relative at West Palm Beach

New York, June 23.—Amaza Plummer Flagler, cousin of the late Henry M. Flagler, who casts a certain air of mystery about the death of his relative, declares that unless Harry Harkness Flagler, son of the late millionaire, sees fit to make inquiry into the matter the case will pass into the category of the unsolved riddles.

"When I arrived in West Palm Beach," said Mr. Flagler, "I expected merely to look upon the dead form of my cousin and come back to New York. But I found that he had been removed from White Hall to a row of cottages a mile away. I found that I was not to be informed even which cottage my cousin occupied.

"Mrs. Flagler was with him, but she had dismissed all the old servants and maintained a strict censorship over all news of her husband. With my secretary I went out to West Palm Beach in a wheel chair. A man on a bicycle preceded us all the way, and when we arrived at the row of cottages he dismounted and demanded to know what I wanted. I told him that I wished to see Henry M. Flagler. He said that it would be impossible. When I told him that I was a Flagler and a cousin of the sick man, he said that I would have to speak to J. B. Parrott.

"I asked where Mr. Parrott was, and to my surprise saw Mr. Parrott in a motor car not ten yards back of me.

"He told me in a most offensive tone that I might not see my cousin, and thereafter I found a detective shadowing me everywhere I went.

"Why Henry should have cut Harry out of his will with nothing except the 5,000 shares of Standard Oil stock is more than I can fathom, because I recall distinctly a conversation that I had with Henry in Washington in 1906 in which we discussed the estrangement between father and son. Henry at that time was brooding over the fight.

"I called to Henry's attention the fact that it was the father of Harry's mother who gave him, Henry, his start in life. Henry M. Flagler had nothing until he married Miss Harkness. Then her father established him in the salt business in Michigan. He failed, and again they came to his rescue. They bought him a place in the firm afterward known as Rockfeller, Andrews & Flagler.

"When Henry complained that Harry had done nothing greater than attend the Seely dinner, I reminded him that with all his failings, Harry had inherited them from his father who owed everything to the family of his wife.

"He shook hands with me and declared that he saw the whole thing in a different light then.

"Dr. Keenan, a village physician and a cousin of Mrs. Flagler, was Henry's sole medical attendant. He was financially able to have the greatest experts of Europe and America at his bedside. Why were they not there?

"This is all I know. Unless Harry Flagler sees herein sufficient provocation to start an investigation the matter must drop. I profit neither one way nor the other."

From Palm Beach comes word that the removal of Henry M. Flagler from White Hall to the row of cottages was not regarded as mysterious, inasmuch as White Hall had no veranda whereupon the invalid might get the air. Intimations of mystery are scouted throughout by the Palm Beach dispatches.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN FREIGHTS COLLIDE

Head-on Collision Near Delmar Causes Death to Men Supposed to Be Tramps.

Clinton, Ia., June 22. — Seven men were killed and another probably fatally injured in the wreck of a freight on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad near here to-day. The freight train, speeding down a four-mile hill between Delmar and Downs Station, crashed head-on into a gravel train two miles east of Delmar at noon. Both engines were wrecked and twenty-eight cars were piled on the demolished train.

Two wrecking crews worked six hours clearing their way to the car in which the bodies were found. The victims have not been identified and are believed to have been beating their way in an empty freight car. The injured man is a Japanese laborer, who was brought to the hospital here.

None of the crew of either train was hurt.

TERRA COTTA EAGLE CRASHES THROUGH CAR

Chicago, June 23.—The head of a terra cotta eagle, an ornament on the cornice of the lofty Columbia memorial building, fell 200 feet to State street Saturday.

It struck a street car, passing through the car like a cannonball, cutting a clean hole in the roof, and through a seat, which, fortunately, was empty.

The head measured eighteen inches long and was more than a foot thick. The corner where the accident occurred is one of the busiest in the downtown business districts.

THREE DEATHS FROM REAL ESTATE DISPUTE

Persons Carried Out by Undertow at Ocean Beach Yesterday

San Diego, Cal., June 22.—A petty real estate war, which resulted in the tearing down of signs of warning at a dangerous spot at Ocean Beach, was the cause of three deaths by drowning yesterday.

The dead are: John Stewart Brown, a lifeguard for the bathing house of J. D. Kerny; John L. Manson, aged 19, a seaman of the cruiser California, who has a sister living in Los Angeles, and an unidentified man, believed to have been a sailor.

Two other persons are reported to have been rescued only a few minutes before. Brown's death was dramatic and that of a hero. Robert Oxtoby, a powerfully-built man more than six feet in height, ventured beyond his depth, and into the undertow that is marked by breakers, but no longer by danger signs on the beach. Oxtoby called for help, and thousands of beach visitors heard the call. Brown hastened to the rescue.

Other swimmers went to Oxtoby's rescue when another cry for assistance came from the dangerous spot. Brown, seeing at a glance that Oxtoby was safe, hurried to the assistance of the second man, Manson, who was rapidly being carried out to sea by the undertow, but was too late.

The danger spot at the beach is a rip in the sandbar, where the undertow runs like a mill race, and it was there that both Manson and Brown were carried to their deaths.

While Brown was struggling to reach Manson and save him, a third swimmer, whose name is unknown, became entangled in the rip and lost his life. Brown's body was the only one recovered.

Brown is reported to have a wife and seven children in Sacramento.

IS ARRESTED UNDER LAZY HUSBANDS ACT

While Man Inquires of Police Telephone is Located and Officers Go After Him.

Seattle, June 23.—George Riggs, 22 years old, 165 Dexter street, an automobile mechanician, heard that a warrant had been issued for his arrest under the lazy husband act, and inquired at the police station if such was the case. While he was talking over the phone Motorcycle Policeman Hi Follerich went from the police station to the Winfield hotel, and placed Riggs under arrest. The warrant was obtained on Wednesday by Mrs. Riggs.

Riggs heard from an expressman yesterday that the warrant had been issued, and he called the station from his hotel, the Winfield. He was held on the telephone, engaged in conversation, while Capt. W. H. Searing and Police Operator J. T. McGill ascertained the location of the 'phone. Follerick was detailed to make the arrest, and he arrived at the Winfield while Riggs was talking to the police station.

Follerich took the receiver from Riggs' hands and called for the police auto. Riggs is held in the city jail pending arrangements for furnishing $1,000 bail.

BANKERS ENDORSE CURRENCY REFORM

No Reference Made to Bill Recently Prepared by Democrats

New York, June 23.—Methods which should be pursued in reforming the currency system of the country, according to the views of the American Bankers' Association, are outlined in a detailed statement issued by the currency commission of that organization. The statement, which answers thirty-three questions formulated by a sub-committee of the commission on banking and currency of the United States senate, was prepared by the commission, which recently convened at Atlantic City, N. J.

The commission indorsed the currency plan devised by the national monetary commission, of which Senator Aldrich, of Rhode Island, was chairman. It made no reference to the bill recently prepared at Washington with the co-operation of President Wilson.

Its recommendations, in fact, were framed before the publication of the administration bill. The commission urges that whatever system is adopted it be kept out of politics.

The commission made no attempt to formulate a complete currency system, its recommendations being guided by the questions put to it by the sub-committee of the Senate. It did state its belief, however, that a central banking institution should be established, under governmental control. No reference was made as to methods to be employed in the regulation of such an institution or the appointment or election of its managing heads.

In expressing its ideas as to the establishment of a central bank, the commission, while not declaring for the creation of an institution similar to the great central banks of the principal European countries, points out that "the experience of commercial nations is that results can be accomplished better by the creation of a privately-owned central organization, dominated and controlled by the government, as, for instance, the Imperial Bank of Germany or the Bank of France. It serves to take the matter out of politics.

"The great danger," the statement continues, "is that if borrowers go direct to the treasury, politics will become an all-important and dominating influence."

In answer to the direct question whether there should be a central reserve association, with branches, or a number of reserve associations, without central control, the bankers replied:

"In our opinion one central reserve association, with branches, would best serve our present necessities. Failing that a small number of regional reserve associations, also with branches, might be organized to serve the purpose. The smaller the number of regional reserve associations, however, the more effective the reserve control. If there are to be a number of regional reserve associations they should be under some kind of control, in which both the government and the various associations should have representation."

The commission does not favor continuance of bond-secured currency, the objection being that the volume of currency is thus arbitrarily limited.

ENGINEERS DROWNED NEAR NEW MADRID

Nine United States Engineers Go Down When Survey Boat Capsized.

New Madrid, Mo., June 22. — Nine members of a party of fourteen United States engineers and other government employes were drowned near New Madrid, Mo., late to-day, when the United States survey boat Beaver, which the party was aboard, was capsized in a storm. None of the bodies have been recovered.

The boat sank near Hotchkiss Light on Snakey Bend, and as soon as a report of the accident was received here, word was sent to Memphis and the government steamer Chiska hurried to the scene. Five men on board were saved.

The Beaver, a small craft of the canal boat type, left Memphis last Friday for Snakey Bend, in the Mississippi, about seven miles north of New Madrid, where a survey was to be made preliminary to the construction of revetments. The boat had proceeded to a point about four miles above this city, and was near midstream when the storm broke with but little warning.

Before the craft could be made ready to face the wind it was overturned and sank. The men drowned presumably were caught in the wreckage and drawn down with the boat.

HURLS BRICK THROUGH SCOTLAND YARD WINDOW

London, June 23.—Gertrude Shaw, a militant suffragette, hurled a brick through a window of the Scotland Yard police headquarters Saturday afternoon and subsequently was sent to prison for a term of three weeks.

Miss Shaw is a member of the Women's Social and Political Union and was one of the women who distinguished themselves in April by capturing the monument commemorating the great fire.

Her exploit of to-day, she declared, was a protest against the treatment of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and other suffragette prisoners.

Labor leaders have intimated that their party will not assail Mr. Cook's position as long as he does not attempt to pass legislation that is unacceptable to the Labor party or makes no attempt to repeal recent Labor legislation.

The opposition will be as strong as is possible, as the Liberal majority is represented by one member, while the parties will be equal when a speaker is elected from the Liberal ranks.

LAND SETTLEMENT.

Sir Richard McBride took occasion at an informal gathering at the German Club on Saturday night to reply to the rapidly growing army of critics of his land administration. He declared that their principal contention appeared to be that there was no more crown land available for pre-emptions and said that there were millions of acres in the province at this moment open for settlement. He is altogether mistaken in his diagnosis of the criticism which even people of his own political faith have lodged against his government. It is not claimed that there is no more land available for pre-emption, but, what everybody knows, that the finest tracts have been handed over to speculators for a song, making settlement impossible. This is so self-evident that it is almost unnecessary to quote the record in proof of it. And in this connection we may point out that the fact is not denied in the column and a half harangue with which the Premier regaled himself at the German Club.

Everybody is familiar with the Ootsa Lake transaction, with which the law firm of a member of his own government was associated. Everybody knows that special advantages were given to political friends to corral lands along the routes of projected railways, so that the settlers might be the victims of a species of polished highway robbery when they came to this province in the hope of going into farming. There are less occupiers of farm lands in proportion to the population here to-day than there were ten years ago. The Premier's own figures furnished to the legislature showed that of the large number of people who came to British Columbia in the last year only seven per cent. went on the land, the remainder flocking to the cities. And we know that thousands of them are desirous of taking up agriculture. The rush for the limited number of homesteads opened by the federal government in New Westminster district a short time ago is proof positive of this. The various issues of the Provincial Gazette in the last few years have been a revelation of the activities of the land sharks, hundreds of dummy applications in the interests of speculators having filled their pages. In this way thousands of acres of land have unlawfully come into the possession of a few men. We can put our hand upon a score of young men who for a slight consideration, and in some instances for no consideration at all, permitted their names to be signed to applications to purchase land in which they were never to have the slightest interest. In this manner one energetic individual on the West Coast of Vancouver Island has accumulated thousands of acres of land which is being held at speculative prices.

We commend to the attention of Sir Richard McBride his own office files. On them he will see memorials from the Victoria and Vancouver boards of trade recommending the adoption of an enlightened and effective land policy. He will see similar recommendations from the various conventions of his own political party. All these prove that this province has not had a policy at all in this respect; it has been a sublime potlatch. Where are the millions and millions of acres of land available for pre-emption? Why is it that inquirers across James Bay can obtain no satisfactory information on the subject? Sir Richard might have been more explicit at the German Club banquet and disclosed the particulars of what has been the best kept secret of the generation. Listen to this gem:

"It would not be a difficult thing for the government to carry on a campaign designed to bring into the province thousands of settlers to go on those pre-emptions, but the government I have the honor to lead is not undertaking any work of this kind. We prefer to see settlement forwarded in the older communities first; we wish to see settlement continuing along the established highways of the country."

Quite so. Prices are higher along the established highways. If the remote lands of mystery were available for settlement the settler might not be so readily mulcted at speculative rates. And yet does it not seem strange that in spite of the millions expended by this province on highways through the settled districts and in railway subsidies, agriculture in British Columbia has reached the vanishing point and the Premier himself has a royal commission on the wing at this moment endeavoring to find out what is the matter?

The Premier had better move more quickly with regard to those Atlantis millions of acres of land in the hinterlands. In a few years this province will have to accommodate thousands of people from European countries. They will be unable to pay the high prices along the established highways, and we do not want to have them congesting the population of the cities. It is useless for Sir Richard, even at an informal gathering where politics should be eschewed, to try to bluff his way through this serious question. The fact that he is attempting to do so suggests the distressing circumstance that much success at fooling the populace has impaired his judgment.

WHY A TITLED GOVERNOR?

The Canadian Gazette still thinks a title should adorn Rideau Hall, and criticizes those Canadian newspapers which expressed a desire to see an unembellished distinguished commoner there for a change. Thus saith the Canadian Gazette, with especial reference to the Manitoba Free Press:

"If our contemporary means that what Canada desires at this juncture of her history is a shirt-sleeves sort of Governor-General, we believe it to be profoundly mistaken."

Continuing, this journalistic high priest of snobocracy declares that one is likely to find in the governing class birth and rank associated with ability, virtue, sympathy and high breeding more generally than among any other class.

We have no "governing class" in this country. No particular division of society enjoys any proprietory right to dominate its affairs. We elect our own law-makers, and so long as they possess character and ability we are not concerned with their genealogies. The majority of our great legislators sprang from humble surroundings, and fought their way to the front by sheer ability and force of character. Why should a Governor-General without a title be a "shirt sleeves" sort of an official? Are Messrs. Asquith, Balfour, Bonar Law and Lloyd George "shirt-sleeves" statesmen? If they are let us have one as Governor-General of Canada by all means, even if, lacking a title, he does not belong to that "governing class" before which the Canadian Gazette with a servility which Thackeray would have delighted to ridicule prostrates itself. In fact, there is no reason why the post of Governor-General of this country should be beyond the reach of a native Canadian—and an untitled one at that.

There is this to be said of the royal house of Britain: Through its educational courses runs the idea of making men of its princes, and that is an important thing in these days when even the highest are not too high to be above the criticism of the "common herd." A dispatch from London to an American newspaper relates that "Cadet Edward," as the Prince of Wales is enrolled in the Officers' Training Corps, marched twenty miles in one day, carrying a rifle, a knapsack and a water bottle. The thermometer registered eighty degrees in the shade on the day the prince successfully underwent the ordeal, yet the report says he finished in good physical condition. On the night preceding the march "Cadet Edward" slept in a barn with his fellow cadets. He was up at five o'clock in the morning, and washed at the village pump. Many of the comrades in arms of the prince fell out, overcome by the heat and fatigue, but the royal cadet manfully finished his task. Then he refreshed himself by swimming across a pond. No molly-coddling about the prince's education.

The following was not written of the government of Canada, nor of the administration across the bay, nor of the situation in any municipality in this Dominion. It has reference to conditions in the United States generally, and is taken from the columns of the New York Sun: "Waste a half or a third; bleed us; laugh at every precept of economy; disdain the elements of sound economics; do these phrases actually embody the message of the taxpayers to their public officers? Or is there somewhere a saving leaven of intelligence and caution that will arrest the present course of nation, state and city before it brings us to inevitable catastrophe."

M. Bertillon, a distinguished Frenchman who specializes in vital statistics, says that the term of service in the French army for every male had to be increased from two to three years because of the rapidly falling birth rate. Soon, he avers, the term must be raised to five years due to the operation of the same causes. Either that or ruin for the nation, possibly ruin in any event. But it may be that the spirit of militarism in Europe will pass, as French manhood seems to be doing.

Lady Constance Steward-Richardson has just made her debut as a bare-foot dancer in a New York roof garden theatre. The British nobility is either on the male side allying itself with the stage or on the female side taking to the stage as a means of rehabilitating its fortunes. All of which will no doubt be ascribed to the land policy of Lloyd George. And yet does not history record such things as occurring throughout past centuries?

Fifth Regiment Concert.—The Fifth Regiment band played at the Macaulay camp yesterday afternoon and in the evening had a very large attendance at the concert at Stadacona park. At the latter engagement the instrumentalists had the assistance of Miss Palmer, who sang "Calvary" and of Mrs. Thompson, while a cornet solo "The Rosary," was played by Mr. Smith.

Illustrated Lecture on Egypt.—Prof. C. H. Paterson, who is supplying the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church in the absence of Rev. Mr. Inkster, will give a lecture on Egypt to-night, illustrated by over eighty stereopticon views, in the church hall, corner of Fisguard and Quadra streets. Prof. Paterson, who is a son of the ex-minister of customs, Hon. Wm. Paterson, obtained these views of Suez canal, the Pyramids, temples and monuments of Egypt, at first hand, while travelling in that country. Tickets for the lecture to-night may be obtained at Cochrane's drug store, corner of Yates and Douglas streets, or at the door of the hall.

o o o

Vancouver Chamber of Mines.—The Vancouver Chamber of Mines, which has recently moved into its own permanent quarters in the Fee block, will be visited by the premier and minister of mines, on Wednesday the 25th inst., for the purpose of inspecting the very fine exhibition of provincial minerals which has been set up, and for the purpose of inaugurating the chamber's exhibit as a public institution. The chamber of mines has had its own collection of minerals very greatly extended by additional specimens from various Citizens' Associations, Boards of Trade, and private individuals, and now a very comprehensive collection has been got together, housed for the greater part in handsome glazed oak stand cases and wall cabinets, the larger specimens being set up on stepped platforms. It is doubtful if there is any collection of minerals in the West which can equal this in interest or extent, but the executive will not rest content with present achievements, but are seeking to still further extend the exhibit so that every mining camp shall be adequately represented. This is being done particularly in view of the forthcoming visit of the International Geological Congress to Canada, due in the West at the end of August.

HAS DISAPPEARED

F. W. Amos, a Forme Victorian, Has Not Been Seen in Port Angeles Since May 20.

A former Victorian who has been living for some time past at Port Angeles, F. W. Amos, has disappeared from his home and his family fear that some harm has befallen him.

Mr. Amos had been troubled for a few weeks before he was last seen with acute dyspepsia which brought on insomnia, and this, it is thought, may possibly have unsettled his mind and led to his wandering away. In a letter received by the detective department this morning Mrs. Amos asks that if any information is learned here about her husband, or if his body should be found, she be notified.

About two o'clock on the morning of May 20 Mr. Amos was complaining of very severe pains and Mrs. Amos went down stairs to prepare something hot to alleviate them. When she returned her husband had disappeared and no trace of him has been found since that date. A thorough search has been made in the city and the surrounding country but nothing can be learned of him. No one has seen him, and the fear is entertained that he drowned himself in the Straits.

Mr. Amos is a man of 4[illegible], stout build, bald but with a close-cut grey beard. At the time of his disappearance he was wearing a night-shirt of striped flannelette, underwear consisting of vest and drawers, knit wool socks, tan slippers with elastic sides, a bluish-grey tweed cap, wide khaki trousers and worn coat of striped tweed.

Police Court. — There was another light docket in the city police court to-day, half a dozen cases of intoxicated men and a traffic case.

o o o

Will Meet Committee.—The manufacturers' committee of the Board of Trade will meet the finance committee of the city council this afternoon to ask for a grant towards the Made-in-Victoria buildings which are proposed to be erected in connection with the Provincial exhibition.

o o o

Outer Wharf Team Beaten.—The Times' Carriers baseball team again triumphed over the Outer Wharf nine yesterday morning at the Beach Diamond by the score of 17 to 7. The game was too one-sided to be interesting. Campbell pitched well for the winners, while Quinn, the opposing slabman, although erratic at times, pitched good ball. His team-mates made at least twelve costly errors.

o o o

From Many Points.—To-day's correspondence received by the Island Development League includes letters from a newspaper man of Belfast, who wants material for using in connection with articles on Canada; from a farmer of Dunmurry, County Antrim, Ireland; from two Transvaal residents in search of fruit-farming land; from Brisbane, Australia; from Montreal and two small prairie towns; and from a Chicago man who travelled over on the Empress of Britain with a lot of British Columbians who spoke so favorably of the Island that he wished to get further particulars of its opportunities.

o o o

Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs.—In view of the fact that the city council has not yet made an appropriation for the representation of the fire department at the Tacoma convention of the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs Association, it is doubtful whether the city will be the scene of the convention of 1914. Fire Chief Davis is waiting the action of the council before he announces the arrangements for the fall, when he usually attends this conference and the international one of fire engineers at New York or other selected point. He hopes, in view of the probability that Victoria will secure the Pacific Coast convention next year, that the city will be officially represented on this occasion.

o o o

Specific Performance.—In the Supreme Court to-day Mr. Justice Gregory is hearing the case of F. D. Dillabough vs. Mrs. Kate Williams, a suit for specific performance of an agreement to sell to plaintiff a lot of land on Sumas street. The defence is that the plaintiff is a member of the real estate firm of Monk & Monteith, through which the sale was negotiated, and that this was not disclosed. This was denied by plaintiff, who showed the court that he was working for the firm as an employee on commission basis, and that he made this purchase on his personal account and out of his own funds. Fred C. Elliott is acting for the plaintiff and Leonard C. Mills for the defendant.

A LINE O' CHEER EACH DAY O' TH' YEAR

By John Kendrick Bangs

AN OBSERVATION.

I've noticed in getting along on the track,
In seeking life's laurels and premiums high,
A man can do more with a slap on the back
Than ever he does with a punch on the eye.

It makes little matter the style of the cribs
You set out to crack in the face of your foes,
More prizes will come from a dig in the ribs
Than ever were won by a whack on the nose.

In public, in private, whatever your field,
Wherever you labor, in hamlets or towns,
A far richer profit life's harvests will yield
To mortals whose smilings outnumber their frowns.

NEW OFFICER SPEAKS

Capt. Merritt Starts Work With Salvation Army Here—Change in Officers.

Services at the Salvation Army citadel, Broad street, yesterday, were unusually well attended in honor of the fact that they were the first to take place under the leadership of the new officers, Captain Merritt, Mrs. Merritt and Captain Ruth Lister, who arrived here last week from Edmonton.

In the morning as in the evening, the subject of Captain Merritt's address was "God." Taking for his morning text the first four important words of Genesis: "In the beginning God," the speaker emphasized the thought that God was, is, and shall be. The fundamental base of all faith was God, and in three forms, Mohammedanism, Buddhism and Shintoism, he was worshipped. The Salvation Army was only an organization, and true salvation would come only from God. They, the new officers, might captivate the people with singing, music, eloquence, deportment, organization, or a host of other things, but what they really wanted in the very beginning of their work here was God, who should be placed first in everything in life.

In the evening Captain Merritt spoke of how God had raised man from the dust, and had elevated him, with the breath of life, to a position where he was lord of the earth, with reason and free will. Then came the fall of man, through his abuse of a privilege. It was God's Son who, by sacrifice, opened the way of atonement. The way of salvation was clear, and meant the forsaking of the wicked way and a return to the Heavenly Father. God, who was synonymous with love, had power not only to save but to keep man from further error.

The special musical services during the day included numbers by both the junior and senior bands. Ensign and Mrs. Macdonald leave to-day for Edmonton.

DRIVING ON WRONG SIDE.

Teamster Charged With Turning Corner Too Sharply—Was Struck by a Car.

A practice of teamsters and motor drivers that the police are trying to put a stop to, under the Traffic Regulation By-law, is that of cutting corners sharply, especially in cases where the vehicle should have taken a full swing around the intersection. Where there is not a constable on point duty at the busy intersections or in sight the practice is still very general.

Thomas T. Wilson, a teamster, appeared in police court this morning and pleaded not guilty to a charge of having driven on the wrong side at the corner of Government street and Princess avenue on June 13, on which occasion there was a collision between his team and a street car.

Constable Cottewell was at the corner of Government and Discovery streets at a few minutes before five that afternoon, he told the magistrate, when he saw Wilson, who was driving north on Government street, cut the corner so sharply that he passed within three feet of the curb. An Esquimalt car was going north at the time and a Gorge car coming into town. The latter struck the team broadside on, and but for it having slowed up the results might have been serious.

Wilson questioned the constable as to the position in which he was standing and his vision of the team, but Cottewell was clear in his evidence as to the team being on the wrong side of the road.

Motorman Hall, who was driving the street car, was not present and the case was adjourned until to-morrow.

TWO FIRES CALL MEN

Shingles at 1029 Catch—Garage of R. T. Elliott, K. C., Totally Destroyed.

At 7.50 this morning the fire department was called to a roof fire which had broken out in the shingles at 1029 North Park street, owned by Mrs. Mary Ricards, and occupied by Frank Smith. The damage done was slight, the owner carrying an insurance in the British America Company of $1,200.

There was also an outbreak on Saturday afternoon at the residence of R. T. Elliott, K. C., Summit avenue, the garage at the rear being totally destroyed together with a valuable automobile. The fire department was delayed in reaching the outbreak on account of the impassible condition of the roads in the vicinity of Smith's Hill reservoir, and ultimately the hose had to be unloaded and the line carried uphill in order to lay a stream on the fire. The car destroyed represented a value of $7,000.

RIPPED HULL OPEN AND IS TOTAL LOSS

Alaska Steamer Curacoa Hits Uncharted Rock Off Prince of Wales Island

PASSENGERS HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING

Vessel Belonged to Pacific Coast Steamship Company; Strikes Going Full Speed

Ketchikan, Alaska, June 23. — The steamship Curacao of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, Captain William Thompson, is a total wreck at Warm Chuck, about thirty miles from Fish Egg, on the west coast of Prince of Wales island, where she struck an uncharted rock. No lives were lost.

The vessel's entire bottom was ripped open and several persons narrowly escaped drowning, as the water was almost up to the vessel's decks when she was beached.

Struck on Saturday.

Word of the wreck was brought to Ketchikan by the cannery tender Orient, which was dispatched to Ketchikan for assistance shortly after the accident, which occurred at 8 o'clock Saturday morning.

The Curacao arrived here from Seattle Thursday evening, leaving about midnight with one of the biggest loads of general merchandise and cannery supplies of the season, consigned to numerous fish canneries of the west coast of Prince of Wales island and as far north as Sitka and Killisnoo.

According to the report brought here the Curacoa had just left the Fish Egg cannery, bound for the Swift cannery at Warm Chuck, when she struck the rock. She was running at full speed on the usual course taken by steamers when she met disaster.

Pumps Were Useless.

It was soon found that the pumps could not make headway against the inrush of water, and Captain Thompson immediately headed the vessel for the beach at Swift's cannery. He managed to bring his vessel up on shore just before the water reached the deckline.

Boats had been put over the side, and the last passenger was lifted off just as the Curacoa settled to the bottom.

The cargo will be an entire loss.

The Curacoa is well known at every Pacific Coast port. She operated out of San Francisco to Mexican ports for some time, and about two years ago was in the 'Frisco-Victoria trade. For the past year or so the Curacoa has been running between Seattle and Alaska ports. About two months ago she struck on the east coast of Prince of Wales island and remained hard in the mud for several days. She was repaired at Seattle and prior to her last smash had made only four trips. The Curacoa was one of the prettiest steamers operating in the coast trade. She was not a large vessel, but she was built on yacht lines. She carried a good list of passengers and could stow away a fair cargo.

FREIGHTER FROM CHILE.

Port Townsend, Wash., June 23.—Completing the voyage from Caleta Buena, Chile, in twenty-four days, the British steamship Strathendrick arrived last evening and finished fumigating at one this afternoon. The vessel will go to Everett and load lumber at that port and Bellingham for Australia.

MARAMA COMPLETES A FAST RUN IN MORNING

Liner Berths To-morrow With Large List of Passengers; Empress of India Spoken

Completing a smart run from the Antipodes the Canadian-Australian liner Marama, Capt. Rollis, will berth here to-morrow morning. A wireless message was received to-day from the master of the vessel, which stated that the red-stacker will be at William Head at 7 o'clock in the morning, which means that she will be tied up at her regular berth at the outer docks about 8.15 o'clock.

Shipping men here were not expecting the Marama along until Wednesday as the telegraphic advices from Honolulu stated that she left there last Wednesday morning, some time behind her schedule. The Marama is arriving here on time, the first occasion on which she has berthed according to her schedule for about a year. Evidently the liner must have been favored with splendid weather during the last lap of her voyage from Sydney, N. S. W.

The Marama is bringing north a large crowd of passengers, and quite a number will disembark at this port, some of whom are bound for San Francisco. The cargo aboard the Royal Mail steamship consigned to Victoria amounts to little over 100 tons.

Empress of India Spoken.

Last night the operator at Triangle picked up the C. P. R. liner Empress of India, Capt. Hailey, which is steaming for this port from the Far East. She was approximately 1,600 miles from this port, and it is not likely that she will berth here until some time on Friday. The Empress of Russia, Capt. Beetham, which is outward bound from Victoria on her maiden trip to the Orient, was spoken nearly 1,700 miles from this port. She is making good time on her run.

MAY PURCHASE EASTERN SHIP.

Seattle, June 23.—With her arrival on Elliott Bay yesterday from Skagway, preparations were made to place the steamer Bertha temporarily on the Alaska run of the Alaska Coast Company in place of the steamship Yukon, which was wrecked on Sannak Island last week. The Bertha will remain on this route until a modern steamship of the type of the popular liner Admiral Sampson can be purchased as a permanent addition to the company's fleet. Since the wreck of the Yukon officials of the line have had under consideration the purchase of a large craft in the east. The Yukon has been abandoned to the underwriters as a total loss and they have ordered the crew, who were standing by, to return to Seattle.

HAULING 90 TONS OF SPRINGS EVERY WEEK

Three Fishing Companies Are Having Fine Success Off Langara

About 180,000 pounds of spring salmon are being caught every week off Langara Island, in Dixon's Entrance, by the mosquito fleets operated by the Wallace Fisheries, Ltd., the B.C. Fisheries, Ltd., and the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Company. Fishing off the northern island is better than last year, and the fishermen during the three weeks that they have been pursuing the fish have made record catches and hauled down big profits.

Capt. Donald, master of the G. T. P. steamer Prince George, which was in port to-day from the north, says that the three fishing companies are in keen competition with each other to set a record catch for springs. The Wallace concern has its cannery located on Naden Harbor, and is in close proximity to the scene of the fishing operations. The B. C. Fisheries have to utilize one of their trawlers to carry the catches of the small boats to Aliford Bay, a distance of about 100 miles. The cold storage people are following the same scheme as the Aliford cannery, and have one of their big fishing boats running across Hecate Strait to Prince Rupert with the magnificent springs. Some of the fish caught have tipped the scale at 100 pounds, and these beautiful specimens are eagerly sought in the eastern markets. The most of the fish are being mild-cured and very little is being canned.

Rupert Has Many Passengers.

Considerable rain was encountered by the Prince George during her trip to Stewart. She carried a large crowd of passengers south, their being 85 in the saloon and 43 bohunks. Among those who made the trip were: John Pullen, president of the Canadian Express, who resides in Montreal; N. J. Ross, superintendent of the Canadian Express, with headquarters at Winnipeg; W. E. Duperow, general passenger of the G. T. P. for Southern British Columbia, and Capt. Geo. Robertson, agent of the marine and fisheries department.

This morning the George cleared for the north with the following local passengers: Miss A. Grist, Mrs. E. Smart, J. P. Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. S. Parkinson and Dr. Gilbert.

EXTRA BLUE FUNNEL LINER IS OFF COAST

Ajax Will Berth Here To-morrow Afternoon From Liverpool; Has Many Chinese

At 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon the Blue Funnel extra liner Ajax will arrive at William Head, completing a long voyage from the United Kingdom. A wireless message was received from the big freighter at noon to-day, and her master, Capt. Owen, reported that he would not be able to reach port to-day as the schedule calls for.

The Ajax is bringing to Victoria a record list of Chinese passengers, there being 300 booked to enter Canada here. The Blue Funnel vessel has about 500 tons of general merchandise for local merchants, and she will discharge all of it before proceeding to Sound ports. As soon as the inward cargo is removed from the Ajax holds, longshoremen will commence to stow about 10,000 tons of freight into her. The steamship was placed in the trans-Pacific service in order to help the regular fleet of liners to handle the great cargoes which offer for shipment to the Orient.

No Word of Samonia.

The Hamburg-American liner Saxonia, Capt. Meyer, which was due to arrive here yesterday from Europe via the Orient, has not yet been reported. She is bringing a big cargo to this coast, and shipping men are expecting her along almost any minute. The Saxonia has no wireless equipment, and no word will be received as to her time of arrival until she shows up off Tatoosh.

The Times was advised this morning that the Grace liner Colusa, which was looked for at the outer docks about the middle of this week, will not be in port until next Monday or Tuesday. She is not leaving San Francisco until next Saturday. The Colusa has 400 tons of cargo for Victoria, much of which was loaded at Salina Cruz, Mexico.

LUMBER RATES LOWEST KNOWN FOR TWO YEARS

San Francisco, June 23.—The charter of the steam schooner Jim Butler to load lumber on Puget Sound for San Francisco at $3.50 establishes the lowest freight a coastwise lumber rate has reached in the past two years. Vessels are offering at the present time for San Pedro at $4, which indicates a differential of but 50 cents. This differential was formerly $1, but was cut to 75 cents about six months ago. Lumber freights are lower at the present time than they have been in many months.

The British steamer Collingham left Saturday night for Casper to load lumber for Australia and the steamers Siskiyou, Capt. A. F. Lucas, left for Puget Sound.

The French ship Notre Dame d'Arvor arrived Saturday morning from Iquique via Honolulu. She is under charter to Balfour, Guthrie & Co. for barley from here to the United Kingdom at 40s.

RIVERSIDE BROKE IN TWO.

Seattle, June 23.—While bound up the coast from San Francisco the steamship Admiral Farragut, which berthed here on Saturday, responded to distress call from the steam schooner Riverside, and stood by the vessel until she sank off Blunt's.

"We received the first S. O. S. from the Riverside at 4.10 a. m., said Capt. Griffith yesterday. 'She must have filled with water very rapidly, as we were able to work with her only a short time. We arrived off the wreck shortly after 8 o'clock and immediately lowered a lifeboat. They were on their way to the Riverside when she sank. The entire bottom must have been torn out of the vessel. From appearances she broke in two just before she went down, as there was a loud crash which could be heard for several miles. The after part of the vessel seemed to break away from the rest of the ship, which was hung up on the reef."

Capt. Griffith said the Riverside struck while going at full speed, and was probably resting on the reef amidships when she broke in two from the great strain. The Farragut remained at the scene of the wreck until all of the crew, the captain, his wife and little son had been picked up from their lifeboats by the tug Relief.

WANT JESSIE SEIZED FOR STEALING FISH

Indians on West Coast Are After Local Schooner; Brings in Large Catch

When Capt. Geo. Heater, master of the fishing schooner Jessie, takes his command into Clayoquot on his next trip to the west coast, he will in all probability be accorded a very warm reception by the Indians there. For some reason or another the natives believe that the Jessie is stealing their fish and they have lodged a complaint with the magistrate at Clayoquot, requesting that the Jessie be seized on her next visit.

The Jessie returned from a fishing cruise to the west coast banks on Saturday night and it was while about a mile offshore in the vicinity of Clayoquot with her nets set that the Indians became rather wrathy. They think that the Jessie should be made to keep outside the three-mile limit, the same as the American fishermen. The Indians thought they caught the vessel poaching and in their opinion they have sufficient evidence to have the courts confiscate the schooner.

Plenty of Fish.

Twenty thousand pounds of fish were brought in by the Jessie, including halibut, flounders, cod and sole. Capt. Heather says that the west coast waters are swarming with dogfish and that they are playing havoc with the fishermen's bait. There are splendid indications of an excellent salmon season off the coast, and the packers are making great preparations at the canneries to be able to handle the large quantities of fish which will be caught this summer.

Capt. Heater reports that the American fishing schooner Newington was fishing two miles offshore at Wreck Bay, between Clayoquot and Ucluelet.

The Jessie was hauled out on the ways this afternoon for cleaning and painting, and will not put to sea for another couple of days.

GERMAN COMPANY CARRIES ITS 10,000,000TH PASSENGER.

The North German Lloyd's 10,000,000th passenger, Ferencz Vaszily, arrived in America on the steamship George Washington on last Monday morning.

Mr. Vaszily is a farmer, and intends to locate in Michigan. He has a wife and five children in Lelesz, Hungary, and a brother who came to America some time ago, and who now owns a farm in Jamesville, N. Y. Having heard so much of his brother's good fortune, Mr. Vaszily decided that he, too, would come. He bought a ticket for the steerage from an agent in his town. Upon his arrival in Bremen, it was found that he was the 10,000,000th passenger booked by the company, his money was returned to him, and he was told that he might consider himself the guest of the North German Lloyd for the trip. He was assigned accommodation in the third cabin of the George Washington, presented with a gold watch and a new suit of clothes. He said, upon his arrival, that he had travelled in the greatest comfort, and, if fortune continued to favor him, he would soon send for his family, who would also come over on a Lloyd steamer.

The first North German Lloyd steamer to visit Port Arthur, Texas, arrived there on June 2. The steamer is the Franken. She is loading with cotton, cotton seed meal and logs.

BOSS JOHNSON WILL PLAY GOAL FOR VANCOUVER TWELVE

Con. Jones Lands Star Net Guardian; Big Pro. Teams at Oak Bay Next Saturday

Signing a contract to play goal for the balance of the season, Boss Johnson, Victoria's crack goal tend, attached his John Handcock to a Vancouver document this morning, and will join the Terminal twelve immediately. Johnson will make his professional debut in the lacrosse feature at Oak Bay on Saturday afternoon when the Vancouver and Westminster teams will clash in the first professional league fixture that has been played in the Capital for years. The contest will be the first of three, which will be played in Victoria this summer between the Westminster and Vancouver clubs, and a record breaking crowd is looked for.

Con Jones Here.

Con Jones', the Vancouver magnate, arrived in the Capital this morning for the express purpose of signing up Johnson. He had an interview with the local boy last week, but Johnson wanted a contract, and Jones left without closing the deal. This morning, however, he hustled around, located Johnson, and soon had the youngster signed up. Mr. Jones will look after the preparations that are being made at Oak Bay, and it is possible that temporary bleachers will be erected. The grand stand is being renovated, and a movable fence will be erected to make the grounds the necessary size.

Local Referees.

Vancouver will send over at least a thousand lacrosse followers, while Westminster will also have a large bunch of supporters on hand. The match will be handled by Lester Patrick and Leo Sweeney, Victorians, who have made a name for themselves by their clever handling of the coast matches. The teams will arrive on the special boat on Saturday morning, and the match will start at 3 o'clock sharp. Seats are on sale at the Fit-Rite Parlors, where the plan for the reserved sections has been placed.

Westminster proved the better mud horses at the Royal City on Saturday, when they defeated the Terminals, 7 to 3, before a handful of spectators. The game was played in the pouring rain, but at that the lacrosse was exciting, the Terminals showing their best form of the season. The teams were:

| Vancouver. | Westminster. |
|---|---|
| Hess | goal | Clark |
| Griffith | point | Heward |
| Pickering | first defence | T. Rennie |
| Pringle | second defence | G. Rennie |
| Godfrey | third defence | H. Gifford |
| Murray | centre | Feeney |
| Gorman | third home | W Turnbull |
| Nicholl | second home | Wintemute |
| Carter | first home | C. Spring |
| Lalonde | outside home | L. Turnbull |
| Allen | inside home | G. Spring |

Officials.

Referee, Bob Dewar; judge of play, F. Cullen.

Game timekeepers, F. Lynch and C. Young.

Penalty timekeepers, Dr. F. P. Smith and Vic Russell.

Goal umpires, A. G. Halstead and F. Patrick.

As the Vancouver pros. will finish out their series with New Westminster on Labor Day and the V. A. C. amateurs wind up their league schedule on August 16, it might be a good idea to arrange a series of matches for the city championship. The V. A. C. boys should retain the Mann Cup, and as they have signified their intention of entering the pro. ranks next season, the amateur question should not stand in the way of a city championship series. Such a series would serve to give local fans a line on the amateurs.

The "Big Four" officials have fallen into line with the suggestion that an inter-league series be played in the fall between an all-star Western team and a picked team from the East. The Easterners, however, want the first series played on Toronto or Montreal grounds. Every time they think of a Western trip and a series on New Westminster grounds a cold chill runs through them. And anyone else would experience the same feeling if they had been trimmed as regularly as the Royals trimmed Eastern teams in recent years.

COAST LACROSSE

HARRY GRIFFITHS

Captain of the Vancouver Lacrosse Club, which will play the Royals at Oak Bay next Saturday.

BOATMAN TO JOIN THE BEES TO-DAY

Meek Leads the League Sluggers; Lamb Back on Third

Pitcher Boatman, the University of Washington star, has joined the Bees, according to officers of the locals, and will probably twirl in the Spokane series. The club is on the look-out for another good right handed twirler and will probably secure this twirler before they return home in two weeks' time. Secretary McConnell states that the next split series with Seattle at the Royal Athletic park will consist of seven games here, instead of three here and four in Seattle. The Bees are drawing well on the home lot and figure that the local fans deserve as many games as the locals can give them.

Bert Lamb will take his regular place with the club this week and this will give Lynch another right hander to swing into line. Charlie Brooks will not be available until the middle of next month, though he is now able to hobble about with the aid of a cane. Victoria has three players in the All-Star fielding team, according to the official averages issued by Fielder Jones, Danny Shea, Walter Smith and Mike Lynch, leading their respective positions.

Harry Meek, of course, leads the Northwestern sluggers, the batting averages being as follows:

| | A.B. | R. | H. | Ave. |

Two fighting seamen will feature the smoker at the Victoria Athletic Club on Friday night when Matchmaker Bobbie Evans will present the best boxing card that has ever been offered the V. A. C. members. Stoker Mellon, of the Algerine, and Seaman Wright, of the Shearwater, are the battling tars who will make their debut before the local enthusiasts, and the bluejackets are being heavily supported by their shipmates, to bring home the bacon. Every member of the crew and officers of the three war vessels in port has been made an honorary member of the Victoria Athletic Club during the stay of these vessels in port and they have been tendered the membership privileges while in the capital.

Complete Card.

Clarence Rothus, the Seattle dancing master, and Eddie Shannon, will provide the headliner, the remainder of the card being:

MAJOR LEAGUE BATTING ORDER

Chicago, June 23.—McDonald, the Boston infielder, is leading the National League batters, and his consistent batting shows his leadership is not a fluke. Unofficial averages given out show him to be hitting at a rate of .370. Titus of Boston is second with .358, Cravath is third with .350, and then comes Wagner, of Pittsburg, who is slowly advancing toward the top. Wagner's figures are .346, and he is just two points ahead of his teammate, Pinch Hitter Hyatt. Manager Huggins of St. Louis is sixth with .342.

Jackson of Cleveland is the only .400 hitter still facing the major league pitchers. His average is .407 and he is still several laps ahead of Cobb, who is batting .389 for second place in the American League. Schang, the Athletics' recruit catcher, is third with .379 for twelve games; Collins, Philadelphia, fourth, with .365, and Speaker of Boston, fifth, with .365.

Base running honors are still held by Milan of Washington, who has stolen 23 bases. His team-mate, Moeller, is next with 27. Lobert of Philadelphia leads the National leaguers with 25, and Myers of Boston, is second with 19.

BUTLER LOSES TO AUSTRALIAN CRACK

London, June 23.—In the final of the senior sculls at the Marlow Amateur regatta Saturday, McVilly, Australia, beat Butler, of the Argonauts Rowing Club, Toronto, by two and a half lengths. Butler had things his own way in the heats and defeated Schwerzl and Kusik. The Australian was too much for him in the final, however.

At Henley, in the evening, the Argonaut eight rowed the first half of the regatta course in the good time of 3 minutes, 29 seconds, a performance not equalled by any other competitors. It was raining hard this morning when the eight and four had brief outings, but did no hard rowing owing to detail work being done.

GREAT BOWLING FEATURED MATCHES

London, June 23. — County cricket games started last Thursday and concluded Saturday resulted as follows: The Middlesex-Yorkshire match at Lords was drawn. For Yorkshire Booth made 107, not out. Sussex beat Oxford University by an innings and 33 runs at Brighton. Sussex scores included Vine, 93, and Relf (R.), 177. Worcestershire in an exciting finish defeated Lancashire by 11 runs at Manchester. The Lancashires' defeat was mainly owing to Burrows taking seven wickets for 70 runs.

Kent appeared well beaten at one period of the game with Warwickshire at Tonbridge, but dismissed their opponents for 16 runs in the second innings, eventually winning by six wickets. Woolley (F. E.) and Blythe divided honors in the second innings for Kent, each taking five wickets for 8 runs. The Nottingham - Hampshire match at Southampton was drawn. Notts failed to score the necessary 7 runs to win in a very close finish. Mead scored 127 for Hampshire.

Owing to the Fifth Regiment being in camp and continuous showery weather up to noontime on Saturday, very few shooting men made their appearance at the ranges. ## AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

That wrecking crew may have fallen down at Vancouver, but look over that Seattle box score.

What the Bees really need is a utility infielder, instead of trying to work outfielders on the bags.

Several of the Coast League Clubs want Kantlehner, but the Dutchman is about due to go up to the big leagues.

Felts is starting out well with McGinnity, but he did the same thing for Mike Lynch. At that he is a grand fly chaser.

Scout O'Hara, of the Reds, looked over Charlie Schmutz and Weiser Dell, but neither of these slab artists are for sale until the end of the season.

Umpire Casey handed Vancouver that second game last Friday. Smith outpitched Hall, but the latter had the umps. on his side.

Tommy Madden is not hitting as well as expected, but Lynch looks for a change for the better in his case.

Foot Ruell has not been fielding well at short for Tacoma, so he is to be replaced by Netzel, and Felts, fleet fly-chaser secured from Victoria, will play left field. Felts is a much better fielder than Netzel, but whether Netzel will be any improvement over Ruell at short remains to be seen.

ENGLISH TENNIS TITLES AT STAKE

Wimbledon, Eng., June 23. — The opening of play in the English lawn tennis championship here to-day brought together an assemblage more cosmopolitan than any other gathering that has met on the field of sport. There were 114 entries in the singles, the United States and Australian entries heading the list. There were six from each of these countries.

A dramatic start was assured for the tournament by the drawing in the first round of Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, against H. Roper Barrett, one of the probable members of the British team which will defend the Dwight F. Davis trophy.

R. Norris Williams, another member of the United States Davis cup team, met P. Y. Tabush in the first round.

GRAPPLERS MEET.

Peter Buzukos and Harry Gatenby will meet to-night at the Victoria theatre in their match for the lightweight wrestling title of the Pacific Coast. Buzukos is just as confident that he can throw Gatenby as he was before his match with Kelly. Gatenby is somewhat heavier than the Greek, but this is not deterring the latter from offering a side bet that he will throw his man, two out of three. The bout will start at 8.30 sharp. Bobbie Evans will referee.

TIGERS SHUT OUT VANCOUVER CLUB

Tacoma, June 23.—Clarke and McGinnity engaged in a pitchers' battle yesterday which was major league in its perfection. Two bases on balls and three errors in the first inning gave the locals two runs and the game. Clarke held Tacoma hitless until the seventh. McGinnity was invincible with men on bases. Score:

COWICHAN ELEVEN DEFEATED LOCALS

Cricket Spirit Displayed by the Visiting Club; Wicket Very Soggy

Braving the rains that necessitated the calling off of so many other sporting features, the Cowichan Cricket Club displayed a real sporting spirit on Saturday afternoon, when they visited the Capital and defeated the Albion cricketers on the Beacon Hill grounds, the visiting eleven scoring 164 for nine wickets, while the Albion club compiled 154 in their first innings. The Cowichan Club wore a mourning band out of respect for the late Mr. Murphy, of the Albion Club.

In one incident where an Albion batter was declared stumped out by the umpire, H. B. Hayward appealed to the umpire on behalf of the Albion cricketer, explaining that the batter had spread the wicket with his hand, accidentally. The umpire then reversed his decision. The scores were:

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Crippled Bees Take One From Champions.

When Tealey Raymond doped it out that in Kid McIvor he had a real Bee demoralizer, he fell far short in his dreams. Tealey evidently figured the Kid as one who could tame the mighty band of willow swingers led by Mike Lynch, but he also forgot that the Bees were enjoying a batting slump when they romped up against McIvor on the first occasion. What they did to the juvenile Tillikum yesterday was a shame. The victory was notable for several things, first of all Hardin was admitted into the winning column as a pitcher whom Lynch can now rely upon to take his regular turn on the mound, while Charles Alberts, who is filling in at third base, pounded out two home runs, to feature the matinee. The rest of the "gang" were belting the cork centre to all angles of the ball park, with the result that the Bees won away off. Hardin twirled nice ball and with any kind of support should win regularly.

Locals Expect to Climb at Expense of Indians.

Though Spokane has been the one club that Victoria appeared unable to stop on the road, Manager Lynch looks for at least four out of seven from the Cohn outfit. The Bees made a clean sweep of the series with the Indians when that team played at the Royal Athletic park last month and Lynch does not think that the deposition of Harry Ostdiek has strengthenend the club to such an extent. The Victoria twirlers are going much better right now than they have been for some time, and with the sluggers hitting at full strength, they ought to pile up a lot of runs. The return of Lamb and Delmas to the infield strengthens the local inner works fifty per cent., and will cut off a lot of hits, as well as cut down the errors. Boatman will break in at once, and there may be another new right-hander before the Bees return home.

Jones Pins His Hopes on Boss Johnson.

Without a good goal tend, against a home that boasts of the goal-getting ability of that New Westminster attack the Vancouver club had very little chance of winning back the Minto cup from the Royals. The visit of Con. Jones to the city this morning, which brought about the signing of Boss Johnson, means that the Vancouver magnate is depending upon the local youngster to fill the gap that separates his club from the Minto cup and a hopeless tail-end berth. Cory Hess, who, up to the present, has been guarding the nets of the Vancouver team, has been an in-and-outer, and the Royals have been able to run up large scores on him. Boss Johnson has been noted for several years as the greatest goal tend ever produced on the coast. He is a wonder at blocking close-in shots, while he picks out the long drives with ease. Back of such a defence as that of the Vancouver club, he will be practically impregnable and will greatly aid the Terminal City's chances. Westminster now has a healthy lead in the race for the cup, but Jones looks to in on Saturday at Oak Bay with Boss Johnson in the nets.

WASHINGTON CREW FEATURED REGATTA

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 22.—The national character and calibre of rowing in the United States were demonstrated here Saturday afternoon in the four-mile feature race of the annual inter-collegiate regatta. After winning the two preliminary events of the programme, Cornell, usually conceded to be the leading university of the country in rowing, was forced to lower her colors to Syracuse, and just escaped being defeated by the University of Wisconsin and University of Washington, in a driving and spectacular finish, such as has not been seen on the Hudson river course. The Orange varsity oarsmen rowed across the line a scant length ahead of Cornell, while pressing the exhausted Ithaca eight came Washington, less than a length behind and Wisconsin's bow lapping the stern of the Seattle entrants for national varsity rowing honors. Columbia, the pacemakers for the first two miles, were fifth, "cooked to a turn," to use a coach's expression, while far in the rear Pennsylvania trailed in the wash of the five preceding crews.

The official time of the race was: Syracuse, 19.28 3-5; Cornell, 19.31; Washington, 19.33; Wisconsin, 19.36; Columbia, 19.38 1-5; Pennsylvania, 20.11 1-5.

MARSHALL TO PLAY.

Victorians will be given the opportunity of witnessing Frank Marshall, America's champion chess player, in action at the Camosun Club on Wednesday night. R. A. McIntyre, secretary of the Victoria Chess Club, is looking after arrangements, and he will be able to prepare a list of opponents for the noted chess player. Mr. Marshall will play twenty boards, and a charge of $1.00 will be made to those playing the title-holder, while the admission fee will be 50 cents.

RACE AT VANCOUVER.

Bob Hillier, the energetic secretary of the Pacific Motorcycle Racing Association, has arranged for a meet which will be held at Vancouver on the morning of July 1. Mr. Hillier was quite satisfied with the attendance at the Victoria meet, and states that he will bring his racers to the capital early next month for another meet. Local riders, in the meantime, will keep in training, as a number of local events will be added to the programme.

JACK JOHNSON MUST PAY.

Chicago, June 23. — Because Miss Ruth Mehl was hit in the face with a punching bag, Jack Johnson, the negro pugilist, must pay her $2,500, a jury decided in the Circuit Court. The young woman was struck by the bag which Johnson accidentally knocked from its fastenings in an exhibition at a theatre last year. She sued for $25,000.

HELD BACK NEWS.

Seattle, June 23.—Two members of the eight-oared crew of the University of Washington, which rowed third in the Poughkeepsie regatta Saturday, were kept in ignorance three weeks of the drowning of their brother, it was learned to-day. The oarsmen were Ed. and Elmer Leader, twins, who pulled No. 2 and No. 3 oars in the race. Their brother, Arthur Leader, was drowned while bathing at Rosa, Wash., June 3, but the twins were not told of his death because it was feared the news would unnerve them for the race.

SCORES BOXING.

Vancouver, June 23. — "It seems to me that when a man is killed in the ring people call it a prize fight, and when the contestants come off scathless, a boxing contest." This was one of the remarks made by Judge Grant in the County Court, Vancouver, on Friday in dismissing an action brought by Freddie Welsh, champion lightweight of Great Britain, and Chet McIntyre, physical instructor of the V. A. C., for the releasing of two garnishees arising out of the recent boxing contest between Welsh and Campbell at Brighouse.

ANOTHER VICTORY.

Philadelphia, June 23.—Terrific batting in their first inning enabled the touring Australians to defeat the Gentlemen of Philadelphia here yesterday in the first of a series of cricket matches by an inning and 178 runs, the Antipodeans making 521 runs before they were retired. The home eleven, who scored 124 runs in the first innings Friday, put together 219 runs in their second innings, or a total of 343 for the two innings.

HERE'S SOME CHALLENGE.

During their two months' stay at the Victoria theatre, the members of the Pollard Opera Company will be pleased to hear from any swimming, cricket, tennis or baseball clubs, who would like to meet the athletic members of the Pollard troupe. The Australians are especially good swimmers, and recently scored a complete victory over the Spokane Athletic Club team.

RITCHIE FAVORITE.

San Francisco, June 23.—Champion Willie Ritchie is still quoted at 10 to 8 over Joe Rivers for their Fourth of July title match here, while Leach Cross has been installed a favorite over Bud Anderson in both this city and Los Angeles, where the boys will meet on the nation's birthday.

JOHNSTON CHAMPION.

Del Monte, Cal., June 23.—William Johnston, of San Francisco, won the tennis championship of the Pacific Coast on Saturday, defeating John Strachan, also of that city, in a thrilling five-set match, in which the loser led at 4-2 in the deciding contest.

MAN WHO INDICTED M'NAMARA IS HERE

Earl Rogers, Ball Player, Speed Driver, Cowboy and Great Defence Counsel is Touring

Newspaperman, cowpuncher, auto speed driver and magnate, and the greatest defence counsel on the Pacific slope gives a mere suggestion of the career of Earl Rogers, of Los Angeles, who is a guest with Mrs. Rogers at the Empress hotel for a few days. His visit here is the outcome of the dramatic incident which called a halt in the second trial of Clarence Darrow for alleged bribery of the jury in the McNamara dynamiting case at Los Angeles. Mr. Rogers had succeeded in acquitting his man at the first trial, and in the midst of the second one suddenly collapsed in the courtroom, and doctors told him he had but three hours to live.

"The judge was a great personal friend of mine," said Mr. Rogers to a Times reporter last night, "and he came right down off the bench and told me as I lay there on the floor surrounded by people fanning me and putting ice on my head that if I dared to come back to the court without taking a long vacation to recuperate he would give me six months in the hospital for contempt.

"They took me home and put me in bed and the doctor told me if I had any messages to leave I had better give them now. I made my old nigger man prop me up with pillows and then I just said that I was not going to die, but had to get better. The old nigger was standing there with his lips trembling, and he blurted right out, 'Dat's right, Mistah Roge's, yo' jest gotta get bettah.' That made me laugh so heartily that I really believe he saved my life. Anyway, as soon as I was able to be moved they brought me north and I have been cruising about Seattle and Alaska, and along this gorgeous coast country for several weeks now and I'm going to stay here until August.

"As soon as I get back I'm going to get together a bunch of money and send it up here to invest. I never saw such possibilities. This country is wonderful to me and I have seen Los Angeles grow from 100,000 to half a million and am not easily surprised."

Mr. Rogers told a few little inside points about the McNamara case. He was engaged by the Times to investigate the case on the strength of his reputation in handling strikes for different railway companies. He worked with Burns for some months and then Burns, much against his wishes, arrested McNamara.

"I didn't want him to do it, because I knew that the whole thing was planned by California people. McNamara was merely sent for because he was an expert with dynamite. I wanted to let the others run their course and then get them all.

"McNamara wrote me a letter saying that he had dynamited $30,000,000 worth of property and the Times affair was the first time he had ever taken a life. And yet they say there is no industrial war when a sober man can say a thing like that. I know there is an industrial war. I have seen too much bloodshed in my time to believe there is no war. I have seen between 700 and 800 men killed in it. I have been in the thick of the fight for years.

"But this McNamara affair is not a thing I feel like bragging about. What I feel proud of is the Calhoun bribery case in San Francisco. That was some real work."

Criminal court cases were not the only things about which Mr. Rogers conversed in an interesting manner. He saw the Victoria baseball team play at Seattle and fell in love with Kantlehner.

"He was knocked out of the box in the third inning, but I know a ball player when I see one. I own stock in the Los Angeles and Venice teams and I'd like to get hold of that man. He needs to be corrected of one bad fault in his pitching, but with good coaching for a while I could make that fellow into a $10,000 pitcher.

"By the way, this is June 22, isn't it? If I had been able to stay over in Fairbanks until to-day I should have had an interesting experience. They asked me to pitch one inning in the midnight baseball game they always play there on June 23. The game begins at midnight and goes on until about 2 o'clock. I should have liked to do it but I couldn't arrange it. I used to pitch at Syracuse and afterwards turned professional, but my father made me stop. My ambition then was to be a great pitcher.

"Even now, though in my profession it is the game that I love. Law is a sporting proposition from start to finish and these big cases are the greatest game in the world. If I completely recover my nerves I am going back to it, but not unless my recovery is absolutely perfect. It is too strenuous to tamper with. This is the first vacation I've had in seven years.

Mr. Rogers was much impressed with Victoria from many standpoints. The beautiful residences, and the driving on the left hand side of the road, were among the many peculiarities of the place that he mentioned. Mr. Rogers expects to spend some time here in various visits this summer.

TOUR STATES.

Montreal, June 23.—The all-Montreal cricket team will leave for New York and Philadelphia on July 2 for a series of six games to be played with the strongest clubs in the two cities. The team selected to represent the eastern Canadian clubs is the best lineup in Montreal.

ARE WED UNDER ARCH MADE BY POLO STICKS

Miss Jean Macdonald is Married to Mr. Alexander MacKenzie, Polo Club Member

An interesting home wedding was celebrated last Wednesday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Macdonald, 1603 Chambers street, when their daughter Jean was joined in the bonds of marriage with Alexander, son of the late John MacKenzie and Mrs. MacKenzie, of Quadra street.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. B. Warnicker, the bridal pair standing beneath an arch formed by the groom's polo sticks, and a bell decorated in green and white, the colors of his polo team. The bride was charmingly gowned in ivory satin draped with embroidered chiffon, her veil, which was crowned by a chaplet of orange blossoms, being also trimmed with sprigs of the same and white heather sent from Scotland. Her bouquet was of bride roses and maidenhair fern, her only ornament being a beautiful pearl necklace, the gift of the groom.

She was attended by Miss Laura McGee, of Vancouver, who acted as maid-of-honor, and wore a charming frock of pink satin with lace overdress, with which she carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Miss Maggie MacKenzie, the bridesmaid, wore champagne colored satin draped softly with ninon, and carried pink carnations. Baby Jean Weaver, the bride's small niece, looked winsome as a flower girl in white organdie with a white veil, while she carried a big basket of fragrant sweet peas. She was accompanied by Master Edgar MacKenzie, who made a picturesque page.

Mr. Lenn MacKenzie acted as best man, Mr. George McMorran also assisting at the ceremony.

To the maid-of-honor and bridesmaid the groom presented pearl pins; to the flower girl a locket and chain; to little page boy a signet ring; and to the best man and Mr. McMorran, watch fobs.

The bride and groom were the recipients of many beautiful gifts, among which the fumed oak, leather upholstered chair presented by the Polo Club, of which Mr. MacKenzie was a member, was notable.

The happy pair were given a hearty send off by a great number of their friends, the bride wearing a chic costume of nattier blue cloth with a white Milan straw hat. Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie, who are spending their honeymoon visiting Vancouver, Seattle, and Sol Duc Hot springs, will return to Victoria after a visit to their summer home at Shawnigan.

SUCCUMBS AT JUNEAU

Mrs. Marcella Cole Was Formerly a Resident of Victoria.

Word was received yesterday of the death of Mrs. Marcella Cole, formerly a resident of this city, but for the past twenty years or more a resident of Juneau, Alaska. Mrs. Cole, who had reached her 57th year, had been ill for several months. Mr. Cole was her second husband, her first being Mr. John Drant. The late Mrs. Cole was a native of Alburg Springs, Vermont, and came to the Pacific coast in its early days, making the trip from Sacramento Valley, California, to Roseburg, Oregon, on horse back, coming to this city later, at the age of sixteen years. The funeral is to be held today at Juneau, where interment will take place. Mrs. Cole leaves to mourn her death, three sisters, Mrs. D. McKay, Skagway; Mrs. J. Laumeister, Dawson; Mrs. F. James, Tacoma; three daughters, Mrs. G. F. Stelly, of this city; Mrs. A. H. Harder, Tacoma, and Miss Eva Cole, Juneau, and two sons Messrs. Tom Cole and Cash Cole. Also many grandchildren.

DON'T GROW BALD, YOUNG MAN!

Take Care of Your Hair While You Have Hair to Take Care of.

It's a safe ten to one bet that the young man who uses PARISIAN Sage as an occasional hair dressing will never grow bald.

There's a reason, of course, and it's a very good and sufficient one.

Dandruff germs cause falling hair and falling hair means thinner hair and in due time baldness.

PARISIAN Sage prevents baldness, by destroying the cause of baldness—the little persistent vociferous dandruff germ.

If you have dandruff or itching scalp it means that dandruff germs are sapping the vitality from the roots of your hair. Get rid of all hair troubles by using PARISIAN Sage.

It is not a dye, mind you, neither does it contain poisonous sugar of lead or even sulphur. It is a scientific preparation that abolishes dandruff, stops falling hair and scalp itch, and makes hair grow lustrous and luxuriant.

Many young women as well as men are growing bald and for the same reason.

Use delightful, refreshing PARISIAN Sage; it nourishes the hair roots, if the roots are not dead, and brings to every user a head of glorious hair—radiant and fascinating. Large bottle for 50 cents at drug stores and toilet counters. See that you get PARISIAN Sage.

D. E. Campbell guarantees it.

CRITICIZES CADET MOVEMENT.

To the Editor.—We hear a great deal about the cadet movement being so unpopular with parents and teachers. I'll tell you why.

Our boys are sent to school and college to fit them to earn their living. Anything that takes their mind off their school work retards this objective point.

Boys take to military ideas too eagerly, and it is apt to turn them into popinjays who look on life from a military standpoint, despise teachers as mere civilians and their school work as of secondary importance. Consequently their lessons are neglected for military duties, and, what is far worse, their whole heart and soul is filled with enthusiasm for drills, parades and sham battles.

If they are made officers it is still worse. The very idea of officers of H. M. S. being subject to school discipline! They take their position too seriously, and a cadet officer rarely makes a good record at his school exams. They are fonder of strutting than studying.

Unless the authorities see a way of requiring scholastic attainments as well as physical appearance, so long will dances flourish, and parents who often keep their big boys at school by great sacrifices, be opposed to the cadet movement.

TAP THEM ON THE NOSE.

To the Editor:—It is a pity so many persons and, at least, one paper appear to have retired into what I might describe as an unholy combination to spoil, by exaggeration, the prospects of pretty Miss Victoria (now only at her flapper stage) from growing up modestly and naturally, to eventually become a real beauty and a joy for ever, that British Columbia would surely be proud of.

These people never cease throwing the glare of limelight upon the young creature, the moral effect of which must assuredly be bad for her; merely to induce outsiders to come in and see the show. One of your contemporaries enthusiae over the fact (?) that the law affecting motor cars and street cars "has been well kept in Victoria by motorists," and that "a person on foot, approaching or leaving a street car, is in just as much danger of being run over by a horse as by a motor car."

I beg to differ with the writer of these two "facts," as I can safely assure you that almost every day I walk near a car line I see motorists, from ignorance or cussedness, dashing by halted street cars and committing other offences against the act. Speaking of the comparative danger to pedestrians from motor cars and horse-drawn vehicles, just try the effect of a smart tap on the nose of the "noble animal," at the crucial moment, and I can answer, from experience, he will skid in any direction but over you.

But you had better place no reliance upon the tapping process with the motor car, unless you can get conveniently at the driver's nose, which would give enormous satisfaction to pedestrians of all sects and politics, and win for you an additional host of friends.

ACCOMMODATIONS DURING CARNIVAL.

To the Editor: I daresay that in convassing through the city for subscriptions towards the carnival each of us has met some one who refused any subscription at all on the ground that the committee was doing harm to the city by endeavoring to attract a great crowd, a crowd too large for the city to accommodate. One of my friends said he had been at Calgary for a great show, had admired it and had stood in the streets all day watching it, but that, finding no place for himself but a poor hotel he was glad to get away from it. He had not stayed the night for the next day's events, but had returned to Victoria forthwith. And, he added, you are going to bring thousands into Victoria, to have the same uncomfortable and disenchanting experience. And there was reason for his gloomy anticipations, but the matter has been in the mind of the committee all the while, and as secretary of the accommodating sub-committee, I have been asked to lay before people what we are doing, and how they can, if they work together, help us to prevent this very serious risk.

I suppose most people have seen our advertisement asking them to consider what spare rooms they will have available for lodging strangers during the Carnival Week, Monday, August 4, to Saturday, August 9, and begging them to send us at once the number of rooms and beds, and the prices they will charge. These should be sent in a letter to the secretary, accommodation committee, post office box 1311. People should certainly not charge more than a half over the price they could let their rooms for now. Serious overcharges will do the city infinite damage. This is not to be a single carnival, but the first of a series. And if any person, thinking it over, sees how he or she can contrive to have yet another room available in that week by putting up a tent in the garden for one of his family, he will be doing the city good service. It is difficult, anyway, in a city of seventy thousand inhabitants to find room even for forty thousand additional people unless everybody helps.

When we get these lists we shall go round and view the houses, and see that the rooms and the prices are right, and the committee will then be ready for our visitors. When they come, those who have not made reservation will, we suppose, come to our information bureau, which will be near the post office. Each of them then, after paying two bits, will get a booklet containing a programme of the carnival, an indicator map of Victoria, and a lettered list of the streets, so they can be easily found. The visitor will then tell us what accommodation he wants, and at what price, and he will get from our classified bundles the address card most appropriate to his needs. He will go to that address and will doubtless be charmed with the neat and tidy rooms and with the pretty Victorian complexion of his hostess. She will, of course, be careful to get the rent in advance, and, knowing the carnival programme by heart, she will every day be able to tell him where to go to-day and how to get there—so she'll have him off her hands all day, and he'll be more eager to revisit a town where he has been treated so well.

But the first thing for every Victorian to do to make the carnival a success is to see how many spare rooms he has or can make in his house for the week (seven weeks ahead) from 4th to 9th August, and to list them and their prices with the secretary, accommodation committee, P. O. Box 1311.

W. E. HOME,
Secretary.

IMPASSABLE STREETS.

To the Editor.—With reference to the fire on Summit avenue on Saturday afternoon, in which some $8,000 of property was destroyed, I beg to solicit some of your valuable space in the hope that by making this matter more public it may influence the city council to recognize the absolute immediate necessity of making one of these streets, that is Prior, Blackwood, Grahame or Summit Avenue, passable. Otherwise we will continue in the firetrap which we at present are.

It was sad and disgraceful to witness the exhibition of attempted fire fighting at Mr. Elliot's garage on Saturday. It was fortunate for the city in general that there had been rain and no wind, for the brigade was quite unable to reach the scene of conhagration, and only got water after some 40 minutes, by which time the building was burnt to the ground, by which time, had the country been dry and a slight wind, there would have been a dozen fires to cope with, and we know what that means.

The brigade was distributed and remained stuck on the aforementioned streets, so I think I have good reason to describe this section as a firetrap, in which the public generally should be interested.

During the last two years we have petitioned, begged and prayed the council to put one of these streets in order, but without result, and they remain as the sewer gang left them—a monument of municipal neglect.

It is, or should be, our fire chief's duty to have some open approach to any call turned in, and by so doing he should not again find himself in such a hole as he was on Saturday.

R. GENN.

THE PASSING SHOW

"The Red Widow."

When the curtain rises on the first act of "The Red Widow" at the Victoria theatre, June 24 and 25 there will be disclosed the foyer of the Alacazar Music Hall, London. The second act will take place in the leading hotel in St. Petersburg. The third act will veer to the gardens of the Czar's winter palace, where a 'white fete' is in progress. The Russian characters represented in the play include Princess Sophya, Countess Alexandra, Baron Maximillian Scareovich and Count Ivan Scorpioff. It is claimed that the plot affords Raymond Hitchcock the popular comedian ample scope for his amusing antics; he appears in the play as Cicero Hannibal Butts, a retired millionaire corset manufacturer. He gets into serious trouble by flirting with a pretty woman, who unknown to him is a dangerous Nihilist. The part of the Red Widow will be played by Flora Zabelle.

BAND CONCERT.

Musicians of the Eighty-Eighth Fusiliers Give First Performance in Beacon Hill Park.

The band of the Eighty-Eighth Fusiliers, under Bandmaster Rowland, made its first public appearance outside of regimental functions yesterday afternoon in Beacon Hill park, when an excellent programme was rendered.

There was a very large attendance of citizens around the bandstand, and the expressions of approval of the work of the bandsmen must have proved most gratifying to the bandmaster and his musicians. Although but a young body the men play well together and their rendition of the several selections on the afternoon's programme was all that could be desired.

In the overture to "William Tell" the band made a marked impression, its playing in that difficult number being very effective. A cornet solo was rendered by Bandsmen North and Rife.

Take Lunch in the Open Air Cafe.—Perfect cooking, quick service, most reasonable prices. German specialities. "at The Kaiserhof."

A jointed street car has been in use for several months in Boston as an experiment and its use has been attended with so much success that others of the same general type have been ordered, the new ones embodying some improvements suggested by the experience with the first successful effort to make old street cars into acceptable modern ones and it is accomplished by means of a small vehicle designed for the purpose, practically transforming the three vehicles into one with a low step feature which gives the combination all the desirable features of the cars of newest design. The entrance and exit is made through the centre, which is supplied with wide passages permitting passengers to enter and leave quickly. The double joint in the construction of these cars make it especially valuable for the streets of Boston, where there are many short turns to be encountered.

GUARDING THE HAREM.

There is a good deal of the human touch, too, in a story recalled by the New York Evening Post, and told of the late Lord Wolseley, or Sir Garnet Wolseley as he then was, during the military occupation of Egypt.

Deeming it advisable, for obvious reasons, to place a guard round the harem of a local potentate, a brother officer, strolling into an adjacent garden, was hailed by a sentinel.

"Hi, sir; you mustn't go there, sir!"

"Don't you see who I am?" protested the officer. "I am Colonel Blank of the ——"

"Yes, sir, I know," interrupted the trooper, respectfully; "but they's ladies livin' in that 'ouse, an' th' horders I'm Sir Garnet is that 'e's not to be let to go in there 'isself—no matter 'ow bad he wants to."

One square yard of the earth's surface receives each day averaging six hours of sunshine an amount of heat equal to that contained in 1.8 pound of coal. At this rate an area of about one thousand two hundred miles receives during a year an amount of energy from the sun equivalent to that obtainable from the 1,100,000,000 tons of coal mined annually in Europe and the United States.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT
By RUTH CAMERON

A western woman has recently astonished her acquaintances by calmly prefixing "Mrs." to her name. There is no "Mr." in the case. She has simply become tired of being called "Miss" and decided to be "Mrs." in the future.

Of course, the self-made "Mrs." has been asked what is the reason for her unusual act, and she has promptly countered by asking her questioners why she shouldn't do this.

"Why," she says, "should a woman's marital relations be advertised in this way to everyone she meets, and who hears her name spoken. Men don't have to be labelled benedicts or bachelors every time their names are uttered. Why should women be tagged in this way?"

Don't you think her objections are logical?

I do.

But I don't think I wholly like her solution of them. Some years ago a similar question arose as to why married women should go about the world labelled as wives by their wedding rings, and married men should wear no such label, although of the two, men certainly need the label the most, since they have always been more apt to pose as unmarried. Now, following the logic of the western lady, unmarried women would have taken to wearing the wedding ring in order to confuse the issue. You know what has actually happened. Equality in this matter is being established by the use of the wedding ring by both sexes. In two-thirds of the weddings which I have attended in the last ten years, the beautiful double ring service has been used; and whereas twenty-five years ago it was thought peculiar for a man to wear a wedding ring, it attracts no attention whatever to-day except on the part of the woman who wants to find out whether he is married or not. Isn't this a much better way to even things up than to take all its meaning away from the wedding ring in order that woman might not be unfairly labelled?

I think so, and I wish this same thing might be extended to the engagement ring. Now don't scoff at that. There were plenty of people twenty-five years ago who scoffed at the idea of wedding rings for men. Who knows but twenty-five years from now it will be as common for an engaged man to wear some sort of a pledge of betrothal as it is to-day for married men to wear the wedding pledge.

Suppose then we solve our bachelor lady's trouble in the same way, and instead of doing away with the title of "Mrs." or letting unmarried women assume it at will, suppose we invent a corresponding title for married males; have them put it on their cards, address them by it and introduce them by it wherever they go. Surely no faithful husband could have any logical argument against that. The man who would object to it would probably be he who needed it most.

THE WIFE.

Helen Cowles Le Cron in Poetry.

I am young, O shaggy mountains; I am
young and you are old;
You are mighty, brooding pines, and I am small;
And your great, gaunt shadows crush me
with a horror still and cold,
And your sullen silence holds me like a pall.

Just to-day I went for water to a little silver spring
Where the air was sweet and scarlet berries grew;
And my dreams came flocking homeward
and my haunting fears took wing
Till the night crawled forth to meet me.
Then I knew.

I am stranger to your silence; I am alien to your might;
I am longing for a little, laughing world
Where the days went dancing past me, for my heart was very light—
And from many friendly hearths the smoke upcurled.

Yet he loves you, lonely mountains, and he says he loves me, too,
And his cabin nestles trusting at your feet;
But my heart is torn with longing for the gentle land I knew—
And the careless hours when life was very sweet.

Will you always frown upon me through the weary, weary years
Till my dream home fades to silence and to night?
I was gay, O brooding mountains, till you taught me pain and tears,
I am alien to your solitude and might.

SIR IAN HAMILTON COMES ON FRIDAY

Will Inspect Sidney Brigade Camp in Company With Minister of Militia

DISTINGUISHED OFFICER IN SOUTH AFRICAN WAR

Was Hero of Elandslaagte and Wagon Hill; In Manchuria With Japanese

One of the greatest generals of the British army, who added to a distinguished reputation in the South African war, and who has since been engaged in important military assignments, will be in the city at the end of the week in the person of General Sir Ian Standish Monteith Hamilton, G. C. B., D. S. O., who is accompanying Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, minister of militia, to the Island to inspect the brigade camp at Sidney, probably about Friday.

Sir Ian Hamilton, whose name as Col. Hamilton was on everyone's lips during the South African war for his distinguished service in Natal, with the Ladysmith relief expedition, was born at Corfu 60 years ago. He was himself the son of an officer, and educated at Cheam and Wellington College; he entered the army 40 years ago. His first active service came in the second Afghan war, where he was mentioned in dispatches twice, and in the South African war two years later; he was wounded at Majuba Hill. He was successively with the Nile expedition and in Burma, in both wars of which he was mentioned in dispatches, becoming lieutenant-colonel in the latter campaign, and full colonel in 1891.

He was subsequently engaged with the Chitral relief force in 1895, and became C. B., and had commanded the Third Brigade in the Tirah campaign in 1897. He was then commandant at Hythe till the outbreak of the South African war, when he was attached to the army of General Buller in Natal.

It was here that the general, then a colonel, became famous in the public eye, and was deservedly popular.

At Elandslaagte.

Col. Hamilton distinguished himself greatly at Elandslaagte on October 21, 1899, where the superiority of the British in a pitched battle was demonstrated, although the Boers fought with the greatest tenacity to the end.

The British infantry attacked in extended order, advancing through the valley, but met an artillery and infantry fire, men falling rapidly. The wounded were carried to the rear. However in spite of the Boer guns and sharpshooters, the British infantry gradually gained the upper hand. Col. Scott Chisholm was killed, as was also General Viljoen.

General French thanked the troops on the field, specially mentioning Col. Hamilton for his splendid handling of the infantry. The British subsequently bivouacked in the captured position on the Saturday following.

Defence of Wagon Hill.

He was also at Wagon Hill during the defence of Ladysmith. General Buller, describing the events at Wagon Hill on January 6, 1900, said: "An attack was commenced on my position but was chiefly against Caesar's camp and Wagon Hill. The enemy was in great strength and pushed the attack with the greatest courage and energy.

"Some of our entrenchments at Wagon Hill were three times taken by the enemy and retaken by us. The attack continued till 7.30 p.m. One point in our position was occupied by the enemy the whole day, but at dusk, in a very heavy rain storm, they were turned out of this position at the point of the bayonet in a most gallant manner by the Devons, led by Col. Park. Col. Ian Hamilton commanded on Wagon Hill and rendered valuable services."

Col. Hamilton became major-general and chief of staff to Lord Kitchener, and from that time to the end of the war commanded the mobile columns in the Western Transvaal. He became lieut.-general at the conclusion of the war.

He was next appointed quartermaster-general to the forces in 1903-04, and served as military representative for India with the Japanese forces in Manchuria in 1904-05. He assumed command of the southern command in the latter year, terminating that appointment in 1909. For over a year he was adjutant-general to the forces.

The general holds numerous foreign decorations, and has written four or five books, the latest being "A Staff Officer's Scrap Book."

It is understood that when the inspection of the Fifth Regiment now in camp at Macaulay Point, takes place, [illegible] ly on Saturday, an opportunity [illegible] given the Veterans of the city to meet the general, with whom some of them have served in various campaigns.

CORONATION CHAPTER AT GOVERNMENT HOUSE

Hundreds of Children Are Guests of Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Paterson

Never in its whole history has Government House held such a number of small people as crowded into its ballroom on Saturday afternoon last, when the children of the Coronation Chapter of the Children of the Empire to the number of 1112, and composed of the school children of the city, together with their teachers, members of the school board, Mrs. R. S. Day, regent of the chapter, and others, were entertained by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, and Mrs. Paterson. The event was originally intended to take place in beautiful grounds surrounding the stately building, but owing to the morning's rain the plans were changed to admit of the proceedings taking place within doors.

The children met at their respective schools early in the afternoon, and, led by their teachers, proceeded to Government House, the majority of the children wearing white suits or frocks, and many of the little girls wearing wreaths of flowers in their hair. Assembled at the head of the room with His Honor and Mrs. Paterson were Mrs. Day, Mrs. Jenkins, Superintendent Paul, Trustee MacIntosh and Mrs. MacIntosh, Trustee Riddel and Mrs. Riddel, Mrs. Jay, Mrs. Robinson, wife of the provincial superintendent, and Mrs. D. Donald. The flag occupied a conspicuous place, also, and during the proceedings was saluted by the children.

Mrs. Day reminded the children that the occasion was the first in which any chapter of the Children of the Empire had been entertained at any government house within the Empire, and that they all very much appreciated Mrs. Paterson's kindness for having asked them there that day. The motto, "For God and Home and Empire," was then recited by the children, who then saluted the flag, saying as they did so: "Behold Our Emblem—Three crosses on one background; the red, white and blue. Three colors for us to cherish—the red for zeal and self-sacrifice; the white for purity, and the blue for love and duty. This is the flag of our Empire."

Before leaving their schools one of the children was delegated from each class to take the membership cards for her schoolfellows, and the following received these from the hands of Mrs. Paterson, while Mrs. Day read out the names:

Eleanor Robertson, Jessie Adams, Elsie Laity, Fernwood school.

Dorothy Savage, Rock Bay.

Noreen Keown, Rock Bay.

Kathleen Fisher, Division XIII. of North Ward.

Lilian Smethurst, Hazel Parfit, Edith Musson, Gwendoline Hughes, Mona Jewel, Errol Hellett, Florence Young, Evelyn McLean, Edna Drury, Laura White, George Jay.

Margaret Cullum, Marjorie Binns, Isabella Brown, Frances Jennings, Kathleen Fatt, Alma Matthews, Freddie Hughes, Eileen York, Sir James Douglas.

Edythe Mutrie, Audrey Powley, Audrey Price, Gale Howard, Bank street.

Madge MacIntyre, Spring Ridge.

Isabel Clack, Ferne Dilworth, Gladys Porter, Jessie Winterburn, Margaret Greig, Florence Ward, Venus Anderson, Maple Winterburn, Evelyn Lang, South Park.

Gladys Brindle, Jean Fleming, Dorothy Cook, Agnes Turnbull, Victoria West.

Olivia Tummon, Jean Purridge, Mae Dinsdale, Alice Smith, Lila Pitzer, North Ward.

Alfred Smithers, the Children's Aid Home.

The last is one of the latest branches of the Coronation Chapter.

Vote of Thanks.

Superintendent E. B. Paul, on behalf of the children, expressed his appreciation of the kindness of His Honor and Mrs. Paterson in having them as their guests at Government House, and proposed a vote of thanks to their generous host and hostess, which was endorsed by prolonged applause from the little folks. Trustee MacIntosh seconded the vote, and Mrs. Day's call for a hearty clap and three cheers was responded to with enthusiasm.

Responding on behalf of himself and Mrs. Paterson, the Lieutenant-Governor said that they very much appreciated the sincerity of the thanks expressed, and said that it had given them both a great deal of pleasure to have the children of the Coronation Chapter with them. His Honor complimented the children on their fine appearance, and said that he did not think he had ever seen such a good looking lot of boys and girls as were assembled together on that occasion. In conclusion he thanked the teachers and others who had accompanied the children.

At this point the multitude of little ones, who had been sitting on the ballroom floor throughout, rose to their feet and sang the National Anthem.

Tea Served.

A few moments later all the little folks were enjoying an informal indoor picnic tea of delicious cakes and ice-cream, to which they did ample justice, the many teachers present assisting in passing round the delicious viands.

Later the entire gathering adjourned to the garden at the south of Government House, where, the sun having come out once again, a series of photographs were taken, with the Lieutenant-Governor, Mrs. Paterson, and several of the grown-up guests in the background.

After this the children scampered home, the majority taking a generously filled ice-cream cone with them, while the teachers and other grown-up guests remained behind to partake of the delicious afternoon tea provided by Mrs. Paterson.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

Famous as an author and editor, the son of one of America's greatest novelists, the brother of an eminent philanthropist, the father of a distinguished daughter who has upheld the family's literary traditions to the third generation—Julian Hawthorne is all of these, yet a criminal and a convict, wearing the coarse blue uniform of a prisoner in the United States penitentiary at Atlanta, identified only by a number, 41,435. It is an ignoble ending of a career that began sixty-seven years ago, June 22, 1846, when the heart of Nathanial Hawthorne, immortal author of "The Scarlet Letter," was gladdened by the doctor's news, "It's a boy—and all is well." Born in Boston, Julian Hawthorne was educated at Lawrence Scientific school, Harvard, and at Dresden, and for three years was a hydrographic engineer before he devoted his attention to literature. In addition to writing many books and magazine articles, he was correspondent for New York and Philadelphia newspapers in India, Cuba and elsewhere. He was sentenced to a year and a day in the Atlanta prison on conviction of being implicated in concerns that used the mails to defraud investors in the "securities" of fraudulent Canadian mining companies. Hawthorne is alleged to have written the glowing "literature" of the concerns, as well as using his honored name as a lure to investors. Upon arriving at the Atlanta institution last March Hawthorne was made the editor of "Good Words," the prison paper. Of his fellow convicts Hawthorne recently wrote: "Whether by justice or injustice, they are in hell, and they know its secret."

Henry Rider Haggard, J. P., and barrister-at-law, who raised the British flag over the South African republic in 1877, and who is the author of "She," "King Solomon's Mines," "The People of the Mist," and some two-score other popular novels, was born at Bradenham, Norfolk, fifty-seven years ago. To be exact, Mr. Haggard's prolific pen has turned out thirty volumes designated as "romance," nine novels, eight books dealing with sociology and politics, and one book of travel. His latest, "Child of Storm," is a romance of a Zulu Helen, and a most delightful and shuddery tale of "the stormy, blood-soaked world of the Zulus." The novelist spent nine years of his youth as an official in South Africa, and his first novel, written thirty years ago, was a story of veldt and jungle. Mr. Haggard has a host of admirers who hope the time may be long deferred

"When the Rudyards cease from Kipling,
And the Haggards ride no more."

Albert Kirby, twelfth Baron Fairfax of Cameron, the only British peer born in the United States, will celebrate his forty-third birthday to-day. He is a native of Prince George county, Md., and still owns a farm in that state, to which he pays a visit every year. Lord Fairfax is a stock broker, with offices in New York and London, and had acquired a goodly number of American dollars before he laid claim to the ancient Scottish title, in which he was confirmed without opposition five years ago. The Fairfax barony was created nearly three centuries ago, and was first conferred on Sir Thomas Fairfax. The third baron is famed in history as the "hero of Naseby." The sixth baron inherited from his mother nearly 6,000,000 acres of land in Virginia, and settled in that colony, where he was the friend and patron of George Washington, whom he employed as a surveyor. The present Lord Fairfax is the son of the eleventh Baron and Mary, daughter of Col. Edmund Kirby, of the United States army. He first visited England at the time of the coronation of King Edward, to which he received a special invitation. As his ancestors had lived in America for 170 years, it was necessary for Lord Fairfax to become naturalized as a British subject before he could assume the baronial title.

Capt. Thomas Henry Rivers Bulkeley, aide-de-camp to the Duke of Connaught, who recently married Miss Evelyn Pelly, lady-in-waiting to the Duchess of Connaught and Princess Patricia, will pass his thirty-seventh milestone to-day. Both Capt. Bulkeley and his bride have been prominent in Canadian society since the Duke took up the reins of government at Ottawa. Capt. Bulkeley is the son of a hero of the Indian mutiny, and began his military career, after leaving Eton and Oxford, as second lieutenant of the Scots Guards, in 1899. He served gallantly in South Africa, and was wounded at Belmont. He was aide-de-camp to Lord Curzon and to Lord Minto in India before he became equerry to the Duke of Connaught six years ago.

"HER MASKED BEAUTY."

On to-day and Tuesday the management of the Majestic theatre has arranged to present this picture, showing the life of a beautiful girl whose marvellous beauty bars all avenues to success but those she does not dare to travel, so masking her beauty ingeniously she succeeds in winning for herself a place to work and the sincere admiration and love of the man of her dreams. "The Mayor From Ireland." This story is freshly entertaining and human, and is both naturally and sincerely acted and smoothly and clearly told. "The Bachelor's Bab;" is one of the most pleasing photo-plays that has ever been shown in this city, "That College Life." There is always something interesting in college life and the incidents shown in this picture are no exception.

ENGLAND AND THE LAND QUESTION

BRITISH LIBERALISM MARCHING ONWARD

Sir John Simon Reviews His Party's Achievements and Outlines Its Future Policy

Sir John Simon, the Solicitor-General, in an address at Oxford recently, indicated the opening of the Liberal land campaign on bold lines.

The occasion was the combined dinner of the Russell and Palmerston and the Eighty Clubs, the object of which was to inaugurate the Oxford University Liberal Club. Mr J. C. Allsebrook, president of the Russell and Palmerston Clubs, took the chair.

Replying to the toast of "The Liberal Party," proposed by the president, Sir John Simon, who was loudly cheered, spoke first of the record of the Liberal Government after seven and a half years of administration. First and foremost, he said, our country had enjoyed seven and a half years of peace, and that during a period of frequent the prestige of this country in external ous conflict in that very corner of Europe where the flames of war might most easily start a general conflagration. Instead of the fire extending, it had been limited, and ultimately extinguished, and by common consent it was to the peaceful and disinterested policy of Sir Edward Grey more than to any statesman in Europe that we owed it that the danger which threatened us was averted, and that tht prestige of this country in external affairs stood so high.

Birmingham Policy Bankrupt.

Secondly, the Empire—which according to the gospel of Birmingham could only be prevented from breaking into pieces by our adoption of a system of taxes on imported food—had been yet further consolidated by the fearless application of the Liberal principle of self-government to South Africa.

Free trade, which its detractors supposed to be bankrupt, had proved itself the source of abounding revenue and unparalleled prosperity. The immutable doctrine of a scientific tariff varied from hour to hour—and still more from place to place—and as for the 2s. tax on corn there was not a Tory electioneerer so poor to do it reverence. (Laughter.) The government had secured a fairer chance for Liberal legislation by curbing the power of the peers. They were devoting all their strength to a measure for the final reconciliation of the British and Irish peoples. And, finally, in the region of social reform the story of these seven and a half years, and especially in the last five during which Mr. Asquith had been Prime Minister and Mr. Lloyd George Chancellor of the Exchequer, whether one had regard to the range and scope of the legislation or to the energy with which it had been pressed forward, or to the obstacles in the face of which it had triumphed, formed a record of achievement of which any party might be proud. (Cheers.)

Reforms Accomplished and to Come.

"If all that was needed to secure the continued triumph of the Liberal cause was a record of reform accomplished and of obstacles overcome," Sir John Simon went on, "we might derive much satisfaction from the history of the last seven and a half years; but it ought to be the essence of the Liberal temper that it takes more interest in the future than in the past, and, moreover, the very fact of advance is sure to provoke some resentment; but if we lose an outpost at Newmarket, and are repulsed in an attack on Altrincham, we must reply by an advance all along the line. And it must be a prompt advance and a bold advance. (Cheers.)

"Do not let us be disturbed by timorous doubters who regard every fresh step as a leap in the dark, and who discover in every street corner a parting of the ways. (Laughter.) The courage and determination of the Liberal party were never more keen; we are magnificently led by our generals; we are anxiously awaiting the order to go forward. It is the peculiar glory of Liberalism that the successful application of its principles in one field only paves the way for advance to the next. The great twin brethren of Free Trade, Cobden and Bright—as Mr. Trevelyan reminds us in the new biography we are so eagerly reading—never regarded their principles as limited to the freeing of industry and commerce; they looked forward to the day when a similar crusade for economic independence and the abolition of arbitrary restrictions would be preached and fought for the land.

Changes in Seventy Years.

"The condition of England, which was the central topic of 1840, has indeed greatly changed in the seventy years which have elapsed; real wages have nearly doubled; commerce has expanded as barriers to its growth have been thrown down; nearly all the necessities in life have been reduced in price to their natural cost; education, so far as the elements are concerned, is compulsory, universal, and free; a vast code of industrial and sanitary law has been piled up; the state has undertaken the assistance of age, the protection of child life, the organization and promotion of insurance against sickness and unemployment; and, after all this has been accomplished, employment is good, public debt is diminishing, revenue is rising, and the British workman is the best paid and the best fed in Europe. (Loud cheers.)

"But when all is said and done can it be truly said that the condition of England—judged by the contrast between the comforts of the rich and the trials of the poor—is less tragic or more tolerable than it was? If the standard of comfort among the poor has risen, as it had, so also has the level of expenditure and display among the rich. While wealth has found new means of enjoyment which it can satisfy, poverty has only found new aspirations which it cannot satisfy.

Plight of the Laborer.

"Cobden declared in his day that the English peasantry enjoyed less economic independence than that of any country in the world. It is true, even to-day, that the laborer earns a lamentably low wage, and too often lives in a picturesque but insanitary cottage, his tenancy of which depends on the good will of the owner who employs him. It is still true, in spite of greatly improved administration, that hovels unfit for human habitation cannot be closed, as the law directs, because those who shelter in them have nowhere to go. We still live under a system of tenure by which the owner of land can rent his tenant on what the tenant has made his premises worth, and under a system of rating which penalises an occupier in proportion as he expends capital and enterprise in increasing the value of his holding.

"In a small island, with an ever-increasing population, the countryside is actually losing many of its inhabitants. One in every forty of our agricultural laborers emigrated from England last year, apart from emigration to the towns. On national grounds we cannot afford to wait. Let no one suppose that the problems which this review suggests can be solved by some easy waving of a good fairy's wand, any more than by the bad fairy of tariffs. They will call for imagination and courage, for bold action, for severe as well as skilful surgery. We have to bring Liberal ideas to the task of raising the economic level of underpaid labor as a whole. And the time to set about this task has surely now arrived. (Loud cheers.) By so doing we shall, no doubt, here and there offend a half-hearted wellwisher; by so doing we shall, no doubt, ask for sacrifices from some who can afford to make them. No doubt we shall be exposed to ridicule on the one side and misrepresentation on the other; but by so doing we shall have at any rate this satisfaction, that we may be able to show that the principles in which we believe are available to-day to solve the problems of to-morrow not less certainly than they solved the problems of yesterday and the past." (Loud cheers.)

Jogging Laziness into Activity

The merchant whose business lags in the summer has himself to thank.

To slacken the selling pace in the hot season—to lessen Advertising activity—indicates a resignation which has no place in modern business.

If we think we cannot keep our business booming in summer time, we surely will not.

What a jolt it must have been to the fur trade, when the first mid-summer fur advertisement was run in a daily paper! Now many fur stores are following the example of that progressive fur man who dared to believe that fur sales need not go down as the mercury goes up.

Energy, linked with Advertising, has turned the month of January into the biggest selling season for white goods. Advertisements of a high stimulative power, combined with a disregard of "seasons," have opened up automobile selling two months earlier than was once thought possible. Advertising has started Christmas shopping early in October instead of the middle of December.

Advertising rises superior to seasons and thermometers. The right kind of Advertising strikes a responsive cord in human nature—and human nature is the same in August as in December.

Advice regarding your advertising problems is available through any recognized Canadian advertising agency, or the Secretary of the Canadian Press Association, Room 503 Lumsden Building, Toronto. Enquiry involves no obligation on your part—so write, if interested.

Instant Postum is made of prime wheat and the juice of sugar-cane, roasted and blended to produce a rich, snappy flavor.

A level teaspoonful of Instant Postum in an ordinary cup of hot water dissolves instantly, and makes it right for most persons.

A big cup requires more and some people who like strong things put in a heaping spoonful and temper it with a large supply of cream.

WELCOMES GERMANS AND SPEAKS OF LAND

Sir Richard McBride Makes Statement at Banquet of Deutscher Verein

In replying to a toast at the German Club on Saturday evening, on the occasion when he visited the Deutscher Verein quarters with Hon. Dr. Young as a new member of the club, Sir Richard McBride welcomed Germans to the country as settlers, and made a statement about the land policy of the government.

In reply to the felicitations of W. Bauer, who presided over the social functions after President A. von Girsewald vacated the chair, the premier said he was always anxious to see people from their section of the world come to this land to become one with Canadians and take a hand in the development of this splendid portion of the continent of America.

He had noticed the prominent part Germans took in the educational institutions of the Dominion, and said that Canada had always shown a desire to borrow from Germany ideas in education.

He had been shown by the consul the text of the congratulatory message sent by the British Columbia Germans to the Kaiser on his silver jubilee, and thought the people in the Fatherland would recognize that the Germans in this province were taking some part in its development.

Still Pioneering.

He continued: "There is a great deal to be done here. We are simply pioneering yet. When we look at the records of 1903, or of 1893, and compare them with the records of 1913, we can conclude that a great deal has been accomplished, but candidly, as I look over the province, as I count the work of the last 20 years in the country—what it has stood for, the achievement that has been marked, and the tremendous extent of territory embraced, how much of it has been touched and how much more of it has not—I am bound to confess to you that, in my humble judgment, we are still in the pioneering stage. When you look at the map of British Columbia you must agree that once your eyes travel from the southern belt with its line of settled communities, you come across vast areas that have scarcely any people resident at all. Compared with that I would remind you that our own statistics give us the assurance that the country is equally as rich in the northern sections in timber, farm lands, minerals and fisheries, as it has been found to be in these parts, and I also think we may safely say that its climatic conditions are pretty nearly duplicated."

Men of Courage.

"Your consul tells me you have 400 Germans in Victoria. I wish there were 40,000," he added. "We can easily find room and occupation for all the Germans of thrift and energy that care to come to this country. This is no place for the man who wants to indulge in leisure. The casual man has no place here, but surely this is the land for the man of courage and work."

He mentioned a typical case of a German family with 13 children which had just taken up land in the San Josef valley, through the instrumentality of H. W. F. Behnsen, M. P. P., and proceeded: "Now, in order to provide amply for the proper sort of development in the further territories, the government is engaging in a railway construction policy, and also in building of trunk roads.

Beats the Prairies.

"It may interest you to note that the province has increased her population more than the sister provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, and that, to, with only one line of railway against two lines in the provinces mentioned, and with the added disadvantage of a peculiar configuration statistics show that this province has done more than her share in the way of nation building. Within the past few years the population of the province has increased enormously, and we are at the present time something in the neighborhood of half a million; but I think it is reasonable to state and to expect that within the next ten years we shall be able to claim a million people.

About Crown Lands.

"The critics of the government would have you understand that if the government so desired things could have been so adjusted as to bring within reach a great deal of land, within marked centres, that the homesteader might take advantage of. That is all moonshine. Their principal claim appears to be that there is no more crown land available upon which the pre-emptor may make his home. There are millions of acres of land in this province open at this moment for pre-emption and settlement. True, it is that these sections are not to be found in the older and more settled communities, many of which have been in existence for the last 50 years, but when you go further back into the hinterland of the province, into the Skeena, the Cariboo, the Lillooet and West Coast territories, it is found that there are millions of acres still open for the pre-emptor, which, however, will undoubtedly require pioneering effort to occupy and farm with profit.

"It would not be a difficult thing for the government to carry on a campaign designed to bring into the province thousands of settlers to go on those pre-emptions, but the government is not undertaking any work of this kind till the settler may go in with a reasonable prospect."

German Folk Songs.

The functions of the evening were carried through with all the enthusiasm of the German spirit, and student and folk songs were rendered with the vim of adolescent days, both Latin and German selections being chosen. The initiation of the ministers was marked by the rendition of the vocal numbers, which represented the saving of two souls. Consul Karl Loewenburg was among the guests.

"King" and "Kaiser" were in turn honored, reference being made by several speakers to the silver jubilee of the latter monarch.

The Belgian military authorities have been experimenting with machine guns drawn by dogs, which are said to prove very satisfactory substitutes for horses. Thirty Great Danes, which have been tried in this way at Brussels, have shown themselves particularly efficient in dragging the guns over rough and broken ground. They have the additional advantage of being almost invisible at 300 yards.

STRUCTURE WILL BE READY IN NOVEMBER

Agent General Speaks of the New Building in London

In Canadian Gazette the Hon. J. H. Turner, agent-general for British Columbia, states in an interview that the new provincial building will cost from $250,000 to $300,000 and will be built on a site already secured in Lower Regent street.

"It is the intention to erect a building of good appearance, not ornate, but sufficiently imposing to worthily represent British Columbia in London," Mr. Turner said. "Our offices will occupy the ground floor, and the rest of the space will be let as offices for private firms. We have already received applications for space in the new building, owing, no doubt, to the really splendid site we have secured. In all probability the structure will be ready for occupation in October or November of next year.

"In addition to the agent-general's office, there will be rooms set apart for the use of visitors from British Columbia, and every comfort and facility will be at their disposal. A permanent exhibit of the products of the province will also be an attraction to prospective settlers or investors.

"I think the British Columbia government was especially fortunate in acquiring this site—Nos. 1 and 3, Lower Regent street, which was, as you are aware, the site of the old and at one time well-known Continental hotel. People are not generally aware that the whole of this street is the property of the Imperial government. We have secured a 99 years' lease of our site, and I understand that all the smaller buildings are to be demolished to make way for bigger structures. When this has been accomplished it will be a really splendid thoroughfare—one of the best in London, owing to its great width and desirable location.

"We will have as near neighbors the West End branch of the Bank of Montreal, situated exactly opposite. We will also be close to many other Canadian institutions in London, and altogether the choice is a happy one." I am having plans of the structure prepared by an architect for the approval of the authorities at Victoria."

Referring to the effect the purchase of the site by the British Columbia government will have on Earl Grey's proposed scheme for the housing of all the provincial governments in one Canadian building, Mr. Turner said:

"Personally, I think a better and more practicable scheme would be the housing together, not of the various provincial governments in one central Canadian building, but of the various Overseas Dominions — Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, and possibly India—in one great Empire building. Such a building would be a landmark in London, the capital city of the British Empire."

ADDRESSES AT PICNIC

St. John's W. A. Has Season's Last Meeting and Pleasant Annual Picnic.

The president, Mrs. R. H. Walker, presided at the last meeting before the holidays of St. John's branch of the Woman's Auxiliary to Missions held last week in the schoolroom, Mason street.

Letters of thanks were read during the meeting from the superintendent of the railroad camps which have received books, papers, etc., and a vote of thanks was extended by the meeting to Rev. Mr. Ard for carrying the sacks of magazines to the station. A letter of deep appreciation was received from the Rev. Mr. Gibson for the second-hand clothing, etc., sent him for his needy ones. A quilt was finished during the afternoon, and a bale of good second-hand things packed and shipped for the Rev. Mr. Todd, of Tofino.

Miss Turner, the first life member of the General Board of Canada W. A., and Miss Nixon, of Alert Bay Mission school, had been invited and expected to address the meeting, but spoke instead the following day at the annual picnic of the auxiliary. Miss Nixon told a very entertaining story of the little girls under her care, and gave an account of the clever little pupils at the Mission school. Miss Turner gave a short sketch of her experiences with the Blackfoot Indians. During the afternoon many others joined the band of picnickers at their campus at the Gorge, and about five o'clock high tea, with delicious strawberries and ice cream, was served in the Japanese gardens.

LOSS

By GEORGE MATHEW ADAMS

A man's Loss list is about his best Profit gauge. Growth in Nature and in the processes of Character is but a succession of Losses. The Seed is buried and Loses its form, but the Flower and Tree come. Youth is merged into the Man.

Your Life is measured by what you Lose.

Examples of Gain from Loss dot History. Stevenson Lost his Health, but he gained a marvelous Patience and clearness of Thought and produced masterpieces that will live as long as Language lives. Mark Twain and Dickens both produced their greatest works after large unfortunate Losses. Lord Nelson was partially disabled in body when he entered his Forces against those of Napoleon.

Your Life is Measured by what you Lose.

Most of the successful men in this world have gone through a series of Losses. Each Loss was a step on which they walked to a higher, sounder level. The weakest, most foolish of all people are those who fear to Lose. Loss is the chisel that cuts Character. Burn this little line into your Memory—

Your Life is Measured by what you Lose.

For every Loss, remember there is always something better to take its place. So, when you Lose, expect the Gain—for it will come many times from a direction you least expect—Face your Losses with calmness, forgetting not for a moment that the process through which Loss goes is the great law of Growth.

FIRST THINGS

The first public demonstration of the uses of the stethoscope was made by Dr. Laennec, the inventor, in a Paris hospital ninety-seven years ago. Auscultation, or diagnosis of the condition of internal organs by the sense of hearing, was used by the ancients, but it was not until a little over a century ago that physicians realized its great importance in incipient affections of the chest. Placing the ear to the breast, and tapping the chest with the fingers, were the original methods used, but Laennec found found that by rolling a quire of paper into a kind of cylinder, and applying one end to the patient's chest and the other to his own ear, much better results could be had than by the immediate application of the ear. This led to his invention of the stethoscope, or "breast-explorer." The whole subject of auscultation has been vastly elaborated, and the stethoscope greatly improved, since Laennec's time, and continued investigation has only served to demonstrate more fully the value of this method of diagnosis.

The first eldest son of an English monarch to be styled Prince of Wales was Edward of Carnarvon, afterward King Edward II. The present heir to the British throne, who will celebrate his nineteenth birthday to-day, is the nineteenth Prince of Wales since the conquest of the Cymrians and the death of Llewellyn ap Griffith in 1282. After Edward of Carnarvon there was no other Prince of Wales until the time of Edward the Black Prince. Richard II. and Henry of Monmouth, afterward Henry V., both held the Welsh title before acceding to the throne, but no other bearer of that title was crowned king until Henry VIII. Of all the nineteen, however, the most illustrious Prince of Wales was Victoria's son, grandfather of the present Prince. He held the title a full half century before he became King Edward VII., and during that long period the Welsh title became so much a part of his personality that it was difficult for Englishmen to think of his successor as Prince of Wales.

SCRAP BOOK.

Argentine to Celebrate Centenary of Victoria.

A century ago Europe was convulsed by war; the nations, fired by patriotic zeal, had risen in arms against the Corsican, who was entering upon the final stages of that struggle in which "Chance and Fate conspired to wreck the fortunes of their former king;" Great Britain and the United States were at war on land and sea, and the border country between the States and Canada was a scene of bloody conflict.

Down below the equator an almost equally important struggle was raging, and it was not unconnected with the convulsions of the northern hemisphere. Argentina is preparing to celebrate, a year from Sunday, the centenary of its first great victory in the war for independence from Spanish rule. In this battle of June 22, 1814, as decisive as Waterloo, the Spanish troops were defeated both by water and land, and were forced to abandon the fort of Montevideo, their last stronghold in La Plata provinces.

The centennial of the beginning of the Argentine war for independence was celebrated three years ago. In 1806 British troops captured the city of Buenos Ayres. The Argentines appealed to Spain for aid, and were told that they must protect themselves. The disturbances which ultimately led to the war for freedom were initiated by the refusal of the Argentines to acknowledge Joseph Bonaparte as king of Spain. The Spanish viceroy was deposed by the adherents of Ferdinand VII. Having thus learned their own power, the Argentines determined to throw off all European alliances, and in 1810 was formed the provisional government of the provinces of the Rio de la Plata. A century ago this year the republic was formed, with Posadas as dictator. On June 22, 1814, the Spanish forces were decisively defeated, and, after a period of civil strife between monarchists and republicans, independence was finally achieved in 1816, and the Argentines turned their attention to freeing their neighbors, Chile and Peru.

A century ago Buenos Ayres, although founded in 1536, was still a mere collection of rude huts and hovels. To-day the capital of the great republic, which was fighting its way to freedom in 1813 is the most magnificent municipality of the New World. That North Americans are generally ignorant of this fact was illustrated at a recent examination of school teachers. Asked to name the five largest cities of the Americas, not a single pedagogue included Buenos Ayres in the list. Yet the luxurious and beautiful Argentine capital stands fourth in population among the cities of the new world, and is the home of 1,360,406 people. Some idea of its size may be gained from the statement that it is larger than Montreal, San Francisco and New Orleans combined, equal in population to Boston and St. Louis together, and as large as the seven greatest cities of Canada combined. Among the cities of the world it stands twelfth. Incidentally, it may be mentioned that another South American city, Rio de Janeira, stands fifth in population among the cities of the New World—another fact that had escaped the attention of the pedagogues referred to.

It may be well to add that if any reader doubts the accuracy of these statements, and desires to make a personal investigation, it will be well to go to Buenos Ayres well supplied with cash, for the "high cost of living" is higher in the Argentine capital than in any other city in the world.

Prince of Wales, 19 today, is Pragger Wagger at Oxford.

Whether prince or peasant, plutocrat or pauper, boys, as has often been observed, will be boys. Therefore the heir to Britain's throne, in celebrating his nineteenth birthday to-day, will be addressed by his Oxford chums not by any of his seven names, not as Prince of Wales or by any of his other titles, but as "Pragger Wagger."

"Pragger Wagger," otherwise His Royal Highness Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David, Prince of Wales, Earl of Chester, Duke of Cornwall, Duke of Rothesay, Baron of Renfrew, Earl of Inverness, Prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha, Duke of Saxony, Lord of the Isles and Great Steward of Scotland, was born on June 23, 1894. He reached his legal majority a year ago to-day, and is entitled to a seat in the House of Lords, but it is not likely he will avail himself of that privilege for many years to come. The late King Edward did not take his seat in the House of Lords until he was forty, and King George never cast a vote there. Actually the Prince of Wales is still treated as a boy, and will not be permitted to spend any considerable part of his great income until he has passed his twenty-first birthday, two years hence. At that time he will be perhaps the wealthiest unmarried prince of Europe, as the vast revenue of the duchy of Cornwall has been accumulating for his benefit ever since King George came to the throne. The revenue from the Cornish duchy alone now amounts to $400,000 a year.

Before many years the young prince must take a wife, who will share regal honors with him when he becomes King Edward VIII., and become the mother of his successor. King George was twenty-eight when he married Princess Victoria Mary of Teck, but the late Edward VII. was only a few months past twenty-one when Princess Alexandra of Denmark became his bride. London newspapers are predicting that the Prince of Wales will marry within three or four years, and all kinds of guesses have been circulated as to who the future Princess will be. One report has it that King George and Queen Mary favor Princess Elizabeth of Roumania, while Queen Alexandra is a champion of the cause of Grand Duchess Olga, daughter of the Czar of Russia. Princess Victoria, the German Emperor's only daughter, was suggested some years ago, but such a match was never taken seriously in official circles. In the course of time a court circular will announce that a marriage has been "arranged," and until such time there can be nothing more definite than mere guesses.

"A jolly good fellow" is the Oxford verdict on "Pragger Wagger"—a nickname based on the Oxford method of adding "agger" to the first letters of names. He is fond of outdoor pastimes, a conscientious hard worker rather than a brilliant student, a good football player and little short of a star as a long distance runner. He is slight of figure, weighing only 115 pounds, and Hanoverian in looks and coloring. At Oxford he has plain, unostentatious quarters at No. 4 Old Cloisters, Magdalen (pronounced Maudlin) College. He is addicted to tobacco, smoking a pipe, but never drinks anything stronger than ale. This summer, it is reported, he will spend some time on his farm in Cornwall, where he will devote himself to breeding shorthorns and heavy horses.

At Tirois-Ilets, Martinique, not far from the city of St. Pierre, now in ruins, Josephine Tascher de la Pagerie, the afterward Mme. de Beauharnais and Empress of the French, was born 150 years ago to-day. Her bare-footed, poverty-stricken youth was spent in a West Indian sugar house, and it was only by chance that she was sent to France to become the wife of the Marquis de Beauharnais, and afterward, made a widow by the guillotine, to win the heart of Napoleon.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

Saturday, June 21

In 1832 there was founded at Cobourg in connection with the Methodist church a new institution of learning, called the Upper Canada Academy. It had at first no charter, and its trustees soon found themselves in financial difficulties. Disaster seemed imminent, when it was decided to send the brilliant writer and preacher, Rev. Egerton Ryerson, to England to ask for subscriptions and obtain a Royal charter. The step proved a wise one. In eighteen months Ryerson obtained a considerable sum in subscriptions, and an order from the colonial secretary to the government of Upper Canada "authorizing him to pay to the Upper Canada Academy from the unappropriated revenues of the crown the sum of £4,000. Last and most important, he secured a Royal charter, although up to that time no such charter had ever been issued to any religious body except the "established church." Several years later in 1841 Lord Sydenham, then governor, assented to a bill which gave university powers to the academy and changed its name to "Victoria College." Ryerson, then in charge of a church at Toronto, was immediately appointed principal of the new college, but his formal installation did not take place till June 21, 1842.

Canada lost the services of a distinguished scientist when Sir William Edmond Logan died thirty-eight years ago. He was born in 1798, directed the Canadian Geological Survey for thirty years, beginning in 1842, and was knighted in 1856. He was the first to point out the belt of old earthquake activity, extending from the St. Lawrence valley along the Appalachian range to Alabama, known as Logan's Line. Logan traced this "earthquake belt" by means of the faults in the rocks, through the lower St. Lawrence valley, a region which had been badly shaken by 'quakes in 1663. Sir William was a native of Montreal, and was educated at Edinburgh University. He gained the attention of the scientific world when, after an investigation of the Welsh coal fields, he discovered the "stigmaria clay," which upset the drift theory of the origin of coal. Returning to Canada, he became director of the Geological Survey during its pioneering days. His investigations of the crystalline rocks of Canada and his study of the supposed fossils of the Laurentian rocks were of great interest to geologists. He arranged a display of Canadian mineral products and had charge of the exhibit at the Paris exposition of 1855, which resulted in attracting the attention of the world toward Canada's mineral resources. In 1857, following a meeting in Montreal of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, he made a trip through New York, investigating the Logan Line and the Champlain Line of earthquake belts. He wrote many papers and reports, and a book treating of the "Geology of Canada."

Monday, June 23.

One hundred years ago to-day the Americans under Lieut.-Col. Charles G. Boerstler occupied Queenstown, after a hurried march up the Niagara river. Boerstler, who had a force of 570 infantry, some cavalry led by Maj. Chapin and two field pieces, had been dispatched by Dearborn to attempt the capture of the post and supply depot at the Beaver Dams, eighteen miles west of Queenstown. In the latter place lived Mrs. Laura Secord, a slight and delicate woman, but of the stuff of which heroines are made. She learned of the prospective attack on the British stronghold, and made a circuitous journey of nineteen miles on foot to the quarters of Lieut.-Col. Fitzgibbon, of the Forty-ninth regiment, who was in command of 66 troops and 250 Indians at the Beaver Dams. In the meantime Boerstler, making his way westward from Queenstown, was attacked in the rear by John Brant, at the head of 450 Mohawk and Caughnawaga Indians. The Americans pushed forward over Beaver Dam creek, while the redskins followed on their rear and kept up a galling fire. Soon they came on Fitzgibbon's little force, which was displayed to such advantage that Boerstler believed he was outnumbered, although as a matter of fact the American force was vastly superior. The American commander, deceived by Fitzgibbon's clever concealment of his numbers, and alarmed lest the Indians escape control, agreed to surrender. Maj. De Haven, commander of the district, came up with 200 men and took charge of the American prisoners, who were sent to Burlington Heights. The British then advanced upon Queenstown, and, occupying that place, soon invested Fort George. That the day was saved to the British was largely due to the heroism and patriotism of the Canadian woman, Mrs. Secord, as, except for her warning, the Beaver Dams post would probably have been captured.

WOULD MAKE BASIS ON OPERATING COST

Separate Freight and Passenger Services and Allow Fifty Per Cent. Gross Profit

Ottawa, Ont., June 23.—Mr. Bicknell, when the railway commission met this morning outlined in a general way the western rates inquiry as the Dominion counsel understood it, and as they intend to present their case. The position of counsel for the Dominion was to lay before the board all the information possible in order to help the commission to come to a proper conclusion. The original order was to find out whether the western rates were excessive. This has been their stand from the first, and they have refused to be drawn away from this position. The want of any specific theory as to what is a questionable rate made the subject difficult. How to decide or ascertain what was reasonable was the problem. There was nothing to guide the counsel or the board on the point in Canada, but in the United States considerable progress in laying down principles for rates had been made.

There were four or five different theories and he did not believe it was an insuperable difficulty to get down to principles. Rates, he said had largely been in evolution in this country as well as the United States. Mr. Bicknell said that they did not propose to adduce any evidence in regard to classifications.

The principle which should be followed in fixing rates was the cost of moving traffic. Railroads should ascertain the cost of freight movement, and then get a reasonable profit above this cost. There might be exceptions, but ordinarily the minimum rate should be the cost of carrying. Generally there should be a reasonable profit for the carrier upon his investment over and above cost. How to fix the cost and a reasonable profit was the problem they had to face.

Another difficulty was that they had their transcontinental roads to deal with, all with varying conditions. It was best to take one road where general principles could be applied, and this they are doing with the C. P. R. Mr. Bicknell said they had analyzed the revenue figures for the C. P. R. for 1911 and 1912, as to the total cost and the gross profit.

The principle which they proposed to follow was the one which was followed in all modern business systems. They proposed to find out the cost of moving freight, and then add 50 per cent. for gross profits, which would cover interest on investment and taxation. This they believed would allow them to fix a reasonable rate. The main difficulty which they have had in ascertaining the actual cost of transportation has been in segregating freight and passenger expenses. Many of the items of expenditure such as maintenance of way and equipment, are common to both passenger and freight service.

Railway experts, however, to-day said it was not impossible, and Mr. Bicknell quoted from a number of American inter-state commerce commission decisions to show that it was felt this difficulty could be overcome, and that it was possible to adjust the operation cost between the passenger and freight services. They intended to submit a statement prepared by J. P. Muller to show how the costs could be segregated between the two departments.

HORNE-PAYNE SPEECH IS CALLED SINGULAR

London Never Lost on Canadian Municipal Securities but Care Necessary

London, June 23.—Judging by to-day's cable there seems to have been some excitement, especially in Winnipeg, over the recent statement in London regarding the financial standing of Canadian cunicipalities. The indignation which is said to exist has evidently been aroused through Mr. Horne-Payne's speech. The Canadian Associated Press, however, is unable to learn of any attempt by Canadian railway, bank and commercial interests here to boycott Canadian municipal securities.

Mr. Horne-Payne's statements are regarded here as quite singular and biased. There is, however, a very general feeling in the London market among Canada's best friends that Canadian cities generally, and certain ones in particular, should for the time limit their commitments to strictly necessary undertakings.

There is not the least doubt that two Canadian cities of secondary rank have created larger floating indebtedness than any other cities in the Empire outside of Great Britain. All the same it is a fact that London has practically never lost money by investments in municipal securities, and there is no Canadian city to-day, in the opinion of those in London best qualified to know, which is not perfectly good for its obligations.

They must, however, take the future into account and if certain cities do not exercise greater care, both as regards amount and method, they will certainly bring trouble on themselves and on the whole situation.

Mr. Horne-Payne's orations, it may be added, do not always carry much weight, although his ability is unquestioned.

FABRE WINS.

Montreal, June 23.—Eddie Fabre, of the National A. C., won the seven-mile road race here Saturday at the Scottish games. It is estimated that 25,000 saw the race from different points along the route. There were twenty-four starters and Fabre was never headed during the race. A. Lefebvre, Lacasquette A. A., was second, and W. Bell, of St. Patrick's A. A. A., third.

TEACHERS ASK INCREASE.

Saskatoon, Sask., June 23.—Dissatisfied with the existing schedule of salaries, the entire female teaching staff of the Saskatoon public schools, consisting of 73 teachers, are demanding an increase in salary.

ST. PAUL'S WEAKNESS AGAIN.

Great Cathedral's Walls in Need of Repairing—Improvements in Progress.

Not long ago the physical safety of St. Paul's Cathedral was threatened by the London County Council's plan to tunnel under the churchyard for a tramway line. The force of public opinion prevented such an act. It was discovered, while the controversy was raging that the cathedral walls and foundations were weak and weakening. As the result of a thorough investigation of the condition of St. Paul's Cathedral, a further disquieting report has been received by the dean and chapter from Sir Francis Fox. A committee of experts has accordingly been appointed to consider remedial measures, and in the meantime work on the buttresses and main piers is steadily proceeding.

Sir Francis Fox has ascertained from the city records that when excavations were made for the sewer proposed to be carried along the south side of the cathedral in 1881, a quicksand was found at a depth of 31 feet below the street level, in close proximity to the south porch, and that in view of the grave peril in which the carrying out of the work would have involved the fabric, the project was abandoned. The same quicksand was encountered in the excavations for the warehouses on the south side of the street, particularly those at the corner of Godliman street. It is added that all excavations in connection with building operations in the vicinity of the cathedral demand attention, as they are important causes of the serious movements which have taken place along the south side of the structure.

Plumbing of the dome and walls has been carried out on several occasions, with the result that they are found to be out of true in different places, generally in a southwesterly direction. "The amount of divergence," says Sir Francis Fox, "would be negligible were the fabric at rest, and the core of the walls and piers intact, but although the movement is not in itself serious at present, it is imperative that it should be stopped, otherwise it is only a question of time when danger will be reached."

He further states that in consequence of the tilting of the eight main piers of the dome, due to the excessive and unequally distributed pressure on the foundations, these piers have been seriously cracked and require attention; that twenty-three of the thirty-two buttresses to the drum of the dome are cracked, those to the southwest being very seriously disintegrated; and that both the outer and inner walls of the drum itself are also cracked, and have been pointed up in years gone by. Serious cracks have occurred in the walls of the south transept. Some ten years ago heavy iron tie-rods were fixed to overcome the motion, which, however, continues, as proved by numerous "live" cracks in the cement.

Sir Francis Fox concludes: "The cathedral, although standing immediately, as I am informed, on pot earth, gravel, and sand, is underlaid by wet sand and gravel (the level of water depending more or less on the rainfall), for a depth of about five to six feet above the London clay. The strata of wet sand and gravel constitute an unreliable and unstable condition, which requires a remedy."

Cerbere, France, June 23.—Advices from Barcelona say the renewal of fighting in Morocco, which resulted in violent rioting at Barcelona in 1909 is again arousing the Socialistic and anarchistic elements, and the situation is beginning to be disquieting. A stormy anti-war meeting at Barcelona last night was followed by a collision between police and agitators. Fire arms were used on both sides and several persons were shot.

TO HONOR DIGNITARY

Mystic Shriners Will Welcome Imperial Second Ceremonial Master.

This evening a special meeting of the Gizeh Temple Arab Patrol of the Ancient Order of the Mystic Shrine will be held for the purpose of welcoming Ellis Lewis Garretson, second ceremonial master of the Imperial Council of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, who, accompanied by Potentates Kimball, of Afifi Temple, Tacoma; Potentate McLean, of Nile Temple, Seattle; Noble Bishop Keator, and many others prominent in shrine circles, arrived in the city to-day.

Great preparations have been made for the event by Noble Chief Thomas Davis and his committee, at the head of which is Captain J. F. Scott, and this evening's proceedings will consist of a banquet to the distinguished guests. Following the banquet will be a short business session, and later in the evening there will be addresses of welcome by a number of the prominent members of the local circle, including Nobles Sir Richard McBride, R. F. Green, M. P., H. H. Watson, M. P. P., W. W. Foster and others.

Accompanying the visiting nobles are several of their ladies, in addition to Mrs. Garretson, being a number of other ladies who will be taken in charge by a committee of the wives of local members, including Mrs. Thomas Davis, Mrs. L. D. McLean, Mrs. J. R. Jones, Mrs. Stephen Jones, Mrs. E. Leason and Mrs. W. H. Handley.

A reception is being held this afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Stephen Jones, 248 Douglas street, in honor of the visiting ladies. Potentate Stephen Jones has said that the local patrol compared very creditably with any in Western Canada, and that in time to come it will be one of the best advertising mediums that the city can possibly have.

MANY USED NEW LINE

About 2,000 People Travelled Over Saanich Division Yesterday to and From City.

Almost 2,000 people went out to various points along the line of the B. C. Electric Company's new suburban railway on Sunday. Several hundred people living in the Saanich peninsula also came into town to spend the day.

The first Sunday proved a big day for the new line. The cars were run in trains of two, four cars leaving each station at each scheduled departure. Every car was crowded and the concourses at the landings acted in an unexpected manner trying to pile into the cars before the people on board were given a chance to get off. The scenes at the Victoria terminal were provoking in the extreme to the officials who were trying to accommodate the public decently.

Some surprise was felt by a large number of people going to Deep Bay that there was no place where refreshments of any kind could be obtained. Many who contemplated spending the day at the end of the line were compelled to return on an early car or go hungry. The railway company owns a considerable plot of land at Deep Bay, however, and it is expected that the company will do something to make provision for the people who wish to spend the day by the water.

COST OF A SCALE

Company Sues Grocer for Value of Goods First Ordered and Then Countermanded by Him.

At the time A. E. Smith opened his branch grocery store at the corner of Cook and Pembroke streets he gave an order for a scale to the Canadian Computing Scale Company, according to the testimony of the representatives of that company, heard in County Court this forenoon, when the company sued the grocer for $345 as the cost of the scale and a meat slicer.

The defence was that the order had been cancelled two days after it was given, and that delivery of the scale had never been made or tendered.

Evidence was given for the company by Mr. Cowan, the general agent at Vancouver, and C. H. Gibbs, the local agent. The former said there never was any understanding that the purchaser could revoke his order within two days, and never was any such cancellation. The particular scale that Mr. Smith ordered had been kept in a storage warehouse for him for six months, but had since been sold. He could not now get the one he chose, but there were a hundred or more here or in Vancouver precisely similar that he could have his choice of.

Mr. Brandon, asked Mr. Cowan for some particulars as to the manufacturing cost of the scale and commission paid. The witness stated that commission allowed on sales was 35 per cent., which would amount to $120 in this case. The manufactured cost of the scale was 40 per cent. of its sale price.

Mr. Smith said he had been given to understand that he could cancel the order within two days, and he did cancel it. The paper he had signed when he made his choice of the scale he signed blindly. There had never been any delivery or tender of delivery at his store.

His honor awarded the plaintiff company $100 as damages, but it has to pay the cost of the suit.

APPOINTS SUB-COMMISSIONER.

Philip Harrison Goes to Courtenay to Take Evidence of Monteagle Passenger.

H. W. R. Moore, the commissioner investigating the quarantine station, has appointed Philip Harrison sub-commissioner to go to Courtenay to take the evidence of Mr. Hoborden, the chairman of the committee of passengers of the steamer Monteagle. When Mr. Harrison brings in this evidence it will be sent to Dr. Watt for his perusal and the last session of the commission will be when Dr. Watt takes the box in reply to this evidence.

TO BE REPLACED

Locomotive crew at the old Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway sheds at Victoria West are taken in front of engine. Just behind the old quarters a fine new ten-stall round house is in course of construction.

ESQUIMALT SEWERS

Vote on Loan By-law Will Be Taken on Wednesday—Map of Scheme in Municipal Hall.

On Wednesday the ratepayers of Esquimalt will have an opportunity of expressing their opinion on the proposed loan for sewer purposes. A vote will be taken in the municipal hall between the hours of 9 o'clock in the morning and 7 o'clock in the evening, at which all the ratepayers will be expected to cast their ballot.

In the hall a large map has been hung upon which the lines of the sewers at present proposed can be seen, and the position of these towards the property affected. Reeve Saunders and members of the council will be present to meet ratepayers during the evenings and explain the scheme and the by-law to any who may desire further information.

It is not intended to borrow the whole of the $400,000 at once, should the by-law be approved of, but only such amount from time to time as may be required for the work in hand. The whole scheme will take some time to complete.

MRS. MERRITT

Wife of Captain Merritt, who is sharing with him the leadership of the local corps of the Salvation Army.

AGENT'S LEASING FEE.

Lessor is Sued by Firm for Commission, but Declares it Exorbitant.

What figure would represent a fair commission on a leasing arrangement as between the owner and the agent will have to be decided by Judge Lampman in a case which was heard by him this forenoon.

The Canadian Loan and Mercantile Company, Limited, sued Mrs. Elizabeth Smith for $250 as commission on the work done by it in securing a lease from her to Messrs. Stuckey and Garvin of the lot at the southwest corner of Government and John streets. The lessees have taken this lot for twenty-five years at a rental of $100 per month, and they are to erect on it a twenty thousand dollar building, which reverts to the owner of the land at the expiry of the lease.

From the evidence it appeared that Mrs. Smith signed a form of agreement in the office of the company in which it is agreed that it is to receive the sum named as commission, but this Mrs. Smith stated was not read to her, and when "two fifty" was mentioned she took it in the sense of being a charge for the drawing-up of the interim paper. As a charge for the leasing of the property she considered $250 altogether too much. She offered to pay $100.

After hearing the evidence and argument his honor reserved his decision, the solicitors to put in evidence as to the practice of the business in charging commission on the negotiation of leases. There is a definite practice as to the collection of rents, but there is some doubt as to what would be a fair fee for the original execution of a lease where the lessor is going to do the rent collection.

M. B. Jackson appeared for the plaintiff company, and J. A. Aikman, acting for J. P. Walls, for the defendant.

In Same Condition.—No change was reported to-day in the condition of S. P. Mills, K. C., who is lying very ill at St. Joseph's hospital.

R. HAYWARD ELECTED

Returned by Acclamation to Fill Vacancy on School Board.

The vacancy in the school board due to the resignation of Walter E. Staneland was filled this afternoon in the election by acclamation of Reginald Hayward.

Mr. Hayward, who was proposed by J. Stuart Yates and Arthur E. Haynes, is the son of ex-Mayor Hayward, who was himself a school trustee for 13 years, and is a native son of the province.

The returning officer, W. W. Northcott, sat at the city police court this afternoon to receive nominations, papers being handed in for Mr. Hayward, who thus enters public life without the necessity of fighting an election.

He soon completed the necessary qualifications, as Mr. Northcott, in his magisterial capacity, administered the oath of office directly after the declaration. Mr. Hayward is thus in a position to take his seat at the next board meeting.

WAS SINGER; MODELS NOW

Marco Bufford Has Unusual Career—May Work for Carnival.

It is not often that an opera singer develops artistic sense, and turns what had been a pastime into a livelihood, but in Marco Buffort, who is now at Mortimer's monumental yards engaged in modelling in clay, such a strange set of circumstances has arisen.

The artist, who has a handsome lion modelled in clay from the site of the new opera house for use in connection with the carnival celebration in August, is by birth a native of Luxembourg, and was trained in the Grand Duchy as a singer. His voice, however, failed, but during his youth he had given much attention to modelling, and when he came to the United States with the hope of recovering his voice, he practised at this calling. He held the post of instructor in furniture designing and cabinet making in the Beaux Arts workshops in the old university building in Seattle, and took a prominent part in designing artistic floats at the time of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exhibition.

He now also finds that his voice is returning, but meanwhile he is devoting himself to the art of modelling, and has some work produced at the yards. He hopes to find an opportunity for his talents in connection with the carnival here.

LAY SECOND CABLE

Section Between Mill Bay and Deep Bay Laid To-day for B. C. Telephone Company.

Another of the sections which are part of the all-Canadian cable from the Mainland to Vancouver Island, and thence through to Victoria, was laid to-day. This was the section between Mill Bay and Deep Bay. From Nanaimo to Mill Bay the trunk line passes overland, and is then carried by submarine cable across Saanich Arm to another land line running down the peninsula.

The section laid from the Mill Bay road across the inlet will be about two miles long, and will have ten pairs of wires in order to carry long distance traffic to the Mainland, and also long distance messages to exchanges on the Island. There has been some delay in carrying this work through on account of the fact that the cable did not arrive in time to be laid when the trans-Gulf connection was made a week earlier.

The complete line via Nanaimo will be in service shortly for business.

ERECT FINE BUILDING.

Permit Issued for Brick Structure Near North Ward School.

The growth of Douglas street as a business centre in the vicinity of the Fountain is again exemplified in the issuance of a building permit to Dinsdale & Malcolm for a substantial brick building this morning. This building will be close to the handsome Scott building and near the North Ward school. It will be used for stores and have 21 rooms, the cost being $24,000. The owner is William Chamber, and the design is the work of L. W. Hargreaves.

Other permits issued to-day were for a building for James Isherwood at Kirby road, costing $700, and for a residence on Arnold street for S. Little. An addition to the Golden West Bakery on Quadra street is to be made by D. W. Hanbury.

WILL STRIKE TAX RATE

City Council Will Consider By-law This Evening—The Rates.

The tax rate for the city has been tentatively fixed by the by-law which will be introduced to the city council for passage this evening at 12-50 mills on the dollar for the general rate; 4-15 for interest and sinking fund; :30 of one mill for health, and 2-30 for schools, or 19.75 mills gross, which should be from 17½ to 17¾ mills net.

The other change in the clauses of the standard by-law which is passed at this period each year is that the rates become payable one month earlier, or on September 2, the period for securing rebates continuing till September 30, after which the inducement of one-sixth commutation is terminated.

The by-law will pass this evening without difficulty, it is expected, the reduction in the rate being rendered possible by the increased assessment.

There will not be much important business at the city council to-night, as Aldermen Gleason, Houston, McNeill and Dilworth are away.

CAPTAIN MERRITT

New Salvation Army officer, who succeeds Ensign Macdonald as head of the local corps. Captain Merritt came here from Edmonton.

GORGE PARK OPENS

Will Be Special Attractions at Popular Resort During the Summer.

It will be welcome news to the thousands of citizens who go out to the Gorge that the summer attractions at the B. C. Electric Railway park are now in swing, and that the management of the park is again, as it has been for several summers past, in the very capable hands of Clifford Denham.

The Gorge lends itself particularly well to such out-of-door entertainment as is given there during the summer, and it a popular resort with both citizens and visitors. When it is illuminated at night no prettier pleasure ground could be imagined.

There will be a moving picture display and orchestral concert every evening, and in the pavilion erected two seasons ago there will be dancing (under Mrs. Simpson's management), the opening dance of the season to be held this evening. An excellent orchestra will be in attendance every night. Every Sunday there is to be an orchestral concert during afternoon and evening.

Mr. Denham intends to inaugurate a series of special nights, at which there will be fireworks displays, parades of decorated boats, for which prizes will be given, and other special features, of which notice will be given from time to time. Japanese and Chinese nights will be arranged later.

The company has arranged for a quick service and will put on extra cars in the evenings, so that all patrons can reach the park and get home again in comfort. This spring several new paths have been opened up through the woods and many improvements made to the park in other ways.

Charles had been looking on at a dance for the first time in his life. When he reached home he said, "Auntie, it wasn't a bit like I thought it would be. I thought when people danced they jumped up and down—but they didn't. They just took each other by the waist and skated."

BOARD SETS SHARES

City Pays 53⅓ Per Cent. for Reconstruction of Hereward Road Bridge.

A formal order has been received at the city hall from the secretary of the railway commission fixing the proportions to be paid by the various parties in the reconstruction of the Hereward Road bridge, Victoria West.

A few weeks ago in Vancouver before the commission City Solicitor Robertson appeared, and presented the city's case, and the commissioners announced, after hearing the application, that the board would contribute twenty per cent. from the Railway Grade Crossings Fund.

The city will, under the award, be required to pay 53⅓ per cent of the total, and the Esquimalt & Nanaimo railway 26⅔ per cent., the total cost, including the lowering of grades, having been estimated at $16,000, half for the bridge, and the balance for alteration of the approaches.

The bridge is at present a wooden one, and is very dangerous to traffic, being much narrower than the roadway on either side, and involving a turn of the road in order to pass under the arch.

MORE RESILIENCY IN NEW YORK TRADING

Keen Demand in Loans for Leading Stocks Indicates Short Interest

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

New York, June 23.—More resiliency characterised trading in stocks to-day, and no such pessimism as was acute Saturday was in evidence to-day. Europe was a buyer of Steel in good proportion, and the short element were conspicuous for their covering. Amalgamated Copper and Canadian Pacific made well their losses, but the former issue came in for bear pressure at the high level. The keen demand in the loan crowd for the leading stocks indicated the short interest still existing despite to-day's covering movement.

Scattered Rains in Manitoba and West Are Reported on Exchange

Winnipeg, June 23.—The market opened strong, ¼c. lower to ¼c. higher, showing easier later on the scattered rains in Manitoba and the West, and in different cables. October fell off 1¼ cents, but reacted at the close. Oats were decidedly weaker. Flax was fairly steady.

The cash and export business is very quiet. Receipts are fair. Inspected were 430 cars and in sight 650 cars.

GRAIN FLASHES.

(By F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

Fargo, N. D.—Wheat down the valley from Grand Forks to Fargo looking much better than other parts of state. With perfect weather will make fair crop. Agriculture College at Bismarck says total acreage of North Dakota would fall below 7,000,000.

Chicago—Wheat on passage, decrease 3,624,000 bushels; corn, increase 1,920,000 bushels.

Minneapolis—Cash markets broader, active; good milling demand; flour sales fair.

Visible supply—Wheat, decrease 1,576,000 bushels; corn, increase 2,331,000 bushels; oats, increase 2,688,000 bushels.

Omaha—Nebraska begins harvest largest wheat crop in her history with larger rate of yield than was ever made by any wheat state east of Rockies. Corn crop perfect.

St. Louis—Cash wheat unchanged; corn 1½ lower.

Coarse grains keep hugging low point, this not surprising in face of change in crop outlook. Think we have built up a good sized short interest in wheat on this morning's break; commission houses have bought on the breaks.

Omaha—Local papers confirm Snow's report on Nebraska. Estimates wheat 60 to 70 million. This against 55 million year ago. The rains past few days with cooler weather has stopped all damage reports.

CHANGE OF FRONT AFTER FIRST HOUR

Heaviness in Coarse Grains Has Bearish Influence on Wheat Trade

(B. F. W. Stevenson & Co.)

Chicago, June 23.—Buyers of wheat had too much to contend with to-day and there was a change of front after the first hour with a display of weakness after midday. An early dip in prices was followed by some special support in the July, giving that month one cent rally, the other months half a cent upturn at the same time. The chief heaviness for the day came later when coarse grains markets were heavy and declining and early buyers were inclined to let go their holdings. The market showed a little rally on last trades. Trade had some very positive reports from the spring wheat country this morning from Inglis, Lyle and some of Northwest crop observers. They agree that there is a large section of South Dakota facing a total failure without early rains. They also agree on very spotted condition in North Dakota were abundant rains needed through the balance of the season to carry the crops along. This sort of news was offset later by a very bearish review of Nebraska wheat conditions by B. W. Snow, who says that state is facing a harvest which will exceed all previous records. The decrease of 1,579,000 in the visible was not as great as expected. There was another cut in local wheat stocks bringing the total considerably under two million bushels compared with ten million a year ago.

DESCRIBES SOCIAL SERVICE.

Miss Dietrick, expert from Chicago and New York, Speaks in Churches.

Miss Dietrick, who spoke yesterday morning at Emmanuel Baptist church, and last evening at the Centennial Methodist church, has been engaged by the provincial W. C. T. U. as social service worker for the province, with headquarters in Vancouver. She is an expert in this class of work, having been engaged in social service for the past twelve years in Chicago, New York and Winnipeg. In the last-named city she was working under the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada, and her experience fits her peculiarly well for the work she is about to enter upon here.

Yesterday morning at Emmanuel Baptist church she spoke on "Parental Responsibility" to a large congregation, in the evening at Centennial Methodist church speaking on the subject: "If it Were Your Daughter."

WOMAN.

A certain popular institution on Merseyside bears witness daily to the truth of Pope's famous line: "Woman's at best a contradiction still" (says the Liverpool Daily Post.) The entrance to the main apartment of the institition referred to is equipped with two swing doors, one of which is plainly labelled "Push," while the other bears the equally conspicuous instruction "Pull."

With these alternatives clearly indicated, almost every woman who enters the place either pulls the door which is labelled "Push" or pushes that which bears the opposite direction.

Having in the first instance casually noted this trait in the case of individual lady visitors, a curious observer was impelled to watch deliberately the procedure of the next dozen women who entered.

Of the twelve, only three failed to operate the doors the contrary way to that directed, and of the three exceptions one had her hands full and had, perforce, to gain admittance by pushing the door with her foot.

PREPARING GROUND FOR BRIGADE CAMP

Advance Parties to Arrive on Wednesday; Mobilization Following Day

Preliminary work towards preparing the ground at Sidney for the brigade camp, which commences on Thursday next, is already under way. A small detachment from Victoria was busy yesterday on the lines.

The camp lies southwest of the town and is connected by service pipes with the water supply of the district. It is situated in a level meadow bisected with roads, and there is plenty of room for manoeuvres, a few clumps of wild rose bushes being the only barrier to the free movement of the lines.

Mobilization of the battalions taking part in camp will occur on Thursday morning at the headquarters of regiments, the advance parties proceeding to the scene on the previous day. The three mainland battalions will embark on the Princess Royal at Vancouver at 11 a. m. on that day, and every effort is to be made to have a representative muster on account of the inspection on the following day by General Sir Ian Hamilton, and the minister of militia, Col., the Hon. Sam Hughes.

Battalion orders have been issued covering all details of the arrangements for the mobilization of the men and their dispatch to camp.

The officers commanding will be:

Sixth Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles—Major H. D. Hulme.

Seaforth Highlanders—Lieut.-Col. R. G. Edwards Leckie.

104th Regiment—Lieut.-Col. J. D. Taylor, M. P.

88th Regiment (Victoria Regiment of Fusiliers)—Lieut.-Col. J. A. Hall.

The intention of the headquarters staff is to make the training a serious one and to use to the utmost the time that is available under actual camp conditions, as the period of battalion drill is supposed already to have been put in at the various drill halls.

Apart from the inspection on Friday, the most important feature of the training will be the manoeuvres on Monday and Tuesday which will form the climax of the training.

The local regiment's arrangements are that Lieut. Holmes will parade with the advance party, on Wednesday, and that the regiment will parade opposite the orderly room on Douglas street on Thursday, and will march to the Victoria & Sidney depot, to entrain for that point.

It is improbable that the Army Service Corps will attend as owing to an apparent misunderstanding on the part of the department as to the preparedness of the corps, those men who could not attend the recent camp at Vernon, have not been allocated to the Sidney camp.

The Y. M. C. A. will look after the social side of the men's work in camp, having obtained permission to have an association tent within the lines. Physical Director H. G. Beall will have charge, and the men will be in a position to read and write, and enjoy concerts and entertainments. This work is in keeping with the programme carried on by the Y. M. C. A. in different parts of the Dominion.
